Muskie Stays Bitten

The presidential bug is comparable to a malaria-carrying mosquito. Once the disease takes hold, it is likely to recur now and again. In some victims a low-grade fever is present always, a resurgence likely at any time.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie has admitted as much, so far as he himself is concerned. He did not use the above figure of speech in his recent comments on the subject, but his meaning was clear. Muskie remarked to an interviewer that his "appetite for leadership" remains, despite the reversals that so dramatically took him out of contention for the Democratic accolade last year.

That is an elegant way of saying he still has a yen to try for the White House. The yen seems sure to grow stronger as time passes.

Senator Muskie has learned something from the last go-around. Having run for vice president on the ticket headed by Hubert H. Humphrey in 1968, the senator from Maine began almost at once to push for the 1972 nomination. He sought to capitalize on his then new national prominence, and quickly forged to the front-running position which he held until his setbacks in the '72 primaries. This time he intends to follow a different course.

Muskie does not plan, at any rate, to go in for the sort of heavy speaking schedule that occupied his time in the years before 1972. This does not mean that he will shrink from the public eye. His performance thus far in the present session of Congress suggests that, on the contrary, he expects to use the Senate forum to the greatest possible advantage. The bite of the presidential bug "took" with Senator Muskie, and our hunch is that he will try again.

A GLANCE Into The Past

10 YEARS AGO

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Boehs of Chapin will observe their 55th wedding anniversary Monday. Both have lived in Morgan county since childhood.

Jacksonville held a one point lead at half-time Friday evening, but collapsed entirely and when the game was over Pittsfield held a 75-59 victory.

Estel Duane "Boy" Allen of Meredosia was killed early Saturday when his automobile was struck at the Finley street crossing by an eastbound Wabash freight train.

Jacksonville truly kicked over the dope bucket in the district cage tourney yesterday by defeating the presumed No. 1 team, White Hall, 14-12 in the morning game and then in the evening put the clamps to Waverly 22-20.

Other winners in yesterday's play were Chandlerville, Murrayville, Mt. Sterling and Chambersburg, each of whom annexed two victories.

An automatic telephone has been placed in the Dunlap House for the convenience of traveling men. It is for long distance calls only. The caller sits in a specially designed closet, calls the operator and tells who he wants to talk to, and when the connection is made the operator tells the charge, which is paid by putting coins in special slots in the instrument. The arrangement is such that the operator knows whether or not the amount is correct.

Communication

To the Editor:

Our congressman, Paul Findley, recently reintroduced the Atlantic Union resolution. Since this kind of constructive action does not seem to interest the politicians who compose our television newscasts, it remained unnoticed by the general public. Yet, the Atlantic Union resolution is an excellent example of the long-range planning needed to prevent the recurring crises which plague our relations with the liberal democracies on the other side of the Atlantic.

In introducing H. J. Resolution 205 on January 18, Mr. Findley explained why his Atlantic Union proposal deserves broad popular support:

"The resolution contemplates a massive advance in political institutions. It is no more massive than the advances in scientific technology. The nations of the world have developed the capability to destroy one another completely, but we have yet to build a political system which can prevent a world holocaust. We have the ability to walk among the stars, but not the social institutions which can make it safe to walk the streets of this planet. A federation of the major nations of Western civilization would be formidable enough to deal successfully with the supranational problems that now confound us.

"Without government on a scale to match multinational, intercontinental problems, societies simply cannot continue to function smoothly, and perhaps may cease to function at all.

"Are Europeans ready to consider such a bold step? I believe they are. In 1970, at the annual meetings of the North Atlantic Assembly at The Hague, I introduced a similar proposal. The measure was embraced by most of the delegate-parliamentarians from other countries. In the Political Committee, my proposal was approved by 18 to 5. Due to a parliamentary technicality it was not considered on the floor, although it had widespread support and would have passed by a substantial margin.

"The time for this initiative is now. Support is more impressive than ever before. In the House this is the largest number of members who have cosponsored the first day. Significantly, Majority Leader Thomas O'Neill is among them, and Minority Leader Gerald Ford has assured me that he will vote for it. House Conference Chairman John Anderson is also a sponsor this year.

"How would a Federal Atlantic Union do things better for the American people? I need not burden you with tales of high taxes, inflation, poverty, trade and monetary crises, and pollution. How would Atlantic Union affect the life-style of the average American.

"Taxes are high because the Government spends a lot of money. The largest chunk of the tax dollar goes for defense—over 30 percent. Our European allies also spend huge sums on defense. The duplication, waste and inefficiency are tremendous. How much easier if taxes were 15 percent lower because defense expenses were equitably shared among the citizens of NATO, and if the national security of the U.S. remained unimpaired—or, even strengthened.

"Our trade problems with the expanded Common Market are only beginning. The monetary crisis of last year may recur. Pollution of the Atlantic is caused by all nations which border it. Economic stagnation, unemployment and poverty are all common problems.

"Our American Government, however, is more than a problem-solving institution. It is a bastion of individual liberty and freedom. The personal liberties enshrined in the Bill of Rights are perhaps the single most important contribution of American political thought to the history of mankind. Atlantic Union, a federation of the free-states of the North Atlantic Alliance, would preserve inviolate the rights which are assured us under our own Constitution.

"At the same time, it would provide an institutional framework for dealing with the problems with which our own Government alone has singularly been unable to cope."

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—When the Environmental Protection Act was approved by the Illinois General Assembly in 1969, it was portrayed as a panacea for filth in the rivers, sludge in Lake Michigan, smoke in the sky and the screams of jetliners in the air.

Now, however, some lawmakers are mounting a drive to strip the Environmental Protection Agency and the pollution control board of their powers. They complain that the law is too tough and that staff members of the agency sometimes act arbitrarily and irrationally. The attack is led by State Rep. Webber Borchers, R-Decatur, who was fined $2,000 by the board after it ruled that a sanitary landfill on his property was guilty of burning refuse in violation of the act. Borchers says the agency has been staffed by "radical environmentalists . . . kooks."

Lobbyists for local governments that claim they lack the money to follow EPA rules and for businesses who say more antipollution legislation will put them up against the wall are seen more frequently in the marbled halls of the statehouse. But dissatisfaction with the regulation is by no means confined to businessmen and politicians feeling the pinch.

Environmentalists, themselves, are taking a critical look at the act.

They note with some satisfaction that in the last year the level of pollution in Lake Michigan has gone down slightly. This may be attributable, they say, to court action against Chicago-based steel companies by Atty. Gen. William J. Scott to halt the dumping of sludge and chemicals.

But, they say, giant public utilities and sprawling refineries still spew billowing clouds that burn the lungs and blot the sun.

One effort to help stem the chemical poisoning of the waterways and the seasoning of the air with lung-eating granules is being undertaken by State Rep. Aaron Jaffe, D-Skokie.

As the Environmental Protection Act now stands, the pollution control board has 90 days to act on a request for a variation from the provisions of the act or the rules of the environmental protection agency.

If the board fails to act in that time—and this is the key part—the request is automatically granted. The provision is known as the "pocket veto," the opposite of a "pocket veto." Legislation introduced by Jaffe would give the board six months to act. If it failed, the request would be automatically vetoed.

At a Thursday meeting of the House Agriculture Committee, farm-area lawmakers told Jaffe that his proposal would be unfair to those in business, particularly "the little guy."

"It isn't the little guy who's getting away with stuff," he retorted. "It's the big corporations."

Chairman Ben Blakes, R-Fairfield, observed that Jaffe's bill "is good for the environment and the political angle—it was a pretty popular thing to get behind a few years ago—but it gives no consideration to industry."

Jaffe agreed to a compromise by setting the time limit at 120 days and deleting the "pocket veto" provision as long as "pocket grant" feature would not replace it. But there still was no certainty that the measure would escape the Agriculture Committee.

"You can just let the bill die here," Blades told Jaffe cheerily. "Of course, that's not saying how I'm going to vote on it."

Others legislation touted by environmentalists has been introduced, including two that died a slow and tortuous death in the last General Assembly session, the scenic rivers bill and the Lake Michigan bill of rights.

With support from House Speaker W. Robert Blair, R-Park Forest, the Scenic Rivers bill, which is designed to keep unpolluted 12 downstate waterways, probably will clear the House.

Both the Scenic Rivers bill and the Lake Michigan Bill of Rights were waved through the House with large majorities last year. Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie called them "top priorities in my environmental program," although Democrats retorted that his lobbyists did not work for them.

Both bills died in the Senate Agriculture and Conservation Committee.

State Rep. Robert E. Mann, D-Chicago, says his Lake Michigan bill of rights "was killed on direct orders from Mayor Richard J. Daley." Others argue that its restrictions on lake-front development were unthinkably tough.

Although hearings on both measures were held in Chicago and Springfield, both bills were destined to stay in the committee, composed of such agriculturalists and conservationists as Sens. Edward Nihill D-Chicago, who was keeping a seat warm until Daley's son, Richard M., could run for the Senate, and Charles Chew Jr. D-Chicago, who had no opponent in the November election.

Devaluation Will Not Solve Balance

By RAY CROMLEY
WASHINGTON (NEA) — The evidence suggests devaluation of the dollar will not solve U.S. balance-of-payments problems. For the most part, it is not price which handicaps most U.S. exports abroad. It is rather discrimination of one type or another—blatant and direct, or subtle.

Japan, the European Common Market and a host of other areas large and small have, over the years, built in so much protection for their own goods that a 10 per cent or even a 20 per cent cut in the dollar value may have little effect.

In some cases the import of some goods is flatly prohibited, or direct or indirect quotas set. In other cases, the other country adds so many open and hidden taxes that competition is impossible. Or it may be certain imports in so much red tape that sizable trade in these products is difficult. Other countries make marketing and distribution overly cumbersome, even where imports are permitted.

It would be easy also to overestimate the amount by which the 10 per cent cut in dollar value will lower imports over the long run. In Japan, and some other lands, imports are closely tied with exports.

Since devaluation of the dollar and some other currencies will mean cheaper imports, through some government cooperation the Japanese and others should be able to adjust some export prices accordingly, thus continue to do business on a major scale.

Then there's the question of what motivates Americans to buy foreign goods. In some cases, of course, it is because the imported products are cheaper. But in many other instances Americans buy foreign goods because a European car is a status symbol. So with a particular brand of Japanese TV or camera, or some import from Hong Kong.

A recent study suggests countries are more likely to run into balance of payments problems when their Gross National Product is rising rapidly and the citizenry have more money to spend, indicating a connection between large imports and prestige buying—rather than with bargain hunting.

How then does one break down the protectionist barriers in Japan, West Europe, Latin America and in the controlled economies of the Soviet Union, East Europe and China?

For at least 25 years U.S. negotiators have been attacking this problem with little success. Calm talk, reasoning and major U.S. concessions over the decades have not produced results.

In the face of extreme provocation (outrageously unfair treatment of U.S. goods) this country has steadfastly since World War II refused to get tough. Which may be one reason the foreign barriers continue.

Ann Landers: Parents Tear Up Every Guy Teen Brings Home

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 16-year-old girl who needs an answer from you in the paper. It seems that every time I bring a fellow home my folks find something wrong with him. For example, Jim's eyes are too close together which means he is sneaky. Harold has a low forehead which is a sign that he is not very intelligent. Bill's pointed ears make him look like a fox—which means he is sly. Bernie looks like a baboon because his arms are long and he has long hair and sideburns. Eddie has thin lips, which means he is cruel and stingy.

Now, Ann Landers, will you please tell me if there is any relation between physical characteristics and a person's character? I'm beginning to believe my folks want me to be an old maid. And the way they tear up every guy I bring home, I'm sure I will be.—Disgusted in Fort Lauderdale

Dear Dis: The answer to your question is a big, fat, round NO. These old wives' tales have been around since Pike's Peak was a pimple and there is no validity to them whatever.

Dear Ann Landers: One thing I have learned from reading your column is that what one person considers a problem, somebody else might consider a blessing.

Recently a wife wrote about how unhappy she was because her husband was seeing another woman. She prayed he would come back. Well, my husband is seeing not one woman, but several, and I wish he would get the heck out of this house. He says that according to the law, I can't put him out unless he hits me. I checked with a lawyer and found out he is right. I've begged my husband to see a marriage counselor but he says he doesn't need counseling—that he is perfectly happy, and since I'm the one who is miserable, I should go.

Why should I go when I know what the problem is? It's this lousy marriage.

I have three small children who need me at home. The rat pays the bills so I'm stuck. What's the answer?—Dead End

Dear D.E.: You aren't really stuck unless you want to be. Go to another lawyer and find out what your legal rights are.

Dear Ann Landers: I have not been in this wonderful country of yours very long. Your column has helped me understand many things about the people and the customs. It is like an education for me to read the letters and your replies.

I am 15 years old and pleasantly surprised by the freedom of young girls here. My parents are willing to let me do things the American way. I am asking about an attractive boy of 17 who has what Mama calls "Sunday manners." She does not know he helped himself to a kiss on the second date. Last night his hands began to go places they did not belong. I need your advice.—Rye, N.Y.

Dear Rye: The boy with the Sunday manners has Saturday-night ideas. Drop him.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 16-year-old who is very upset and I have no one I can talk to. Please give me some mature advice.

I was going through my father's desk to find my birth certificate which I needed to get a passport. I ran across a document that turned out to be some divorce papers. I learned for the first time that my father was married before. I never heard of the woman. I am shocked and hurt that I was not told. Should I speak to my father about it?—Still Shaking

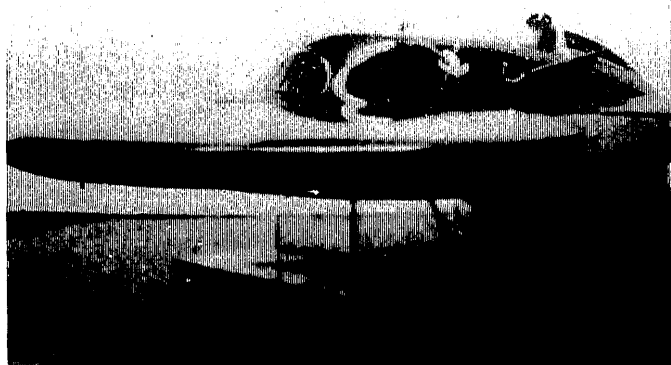

Dear S.S.: Yes, Children have a right to know about the previous marriages of their parents. Tell your father how you feel and get it talked out.

March, April Health Clinics At Greenfield

GREENFIELD — The first of three clinics will be held at the Greenfield Elementary School on Tuesday morning, March 20th, between the hours of 9 and 11 a.m.

All children in the Greenfield Community Unit District No. 10 who will enter kindergarten this fall are invited to attend.

Illinois State Law requires all children entering school to have physical and dental examinations. They must also be immunized against the following diseases: Diphtheria, Tetanus, Whooping Cough, Polio, and both kinds of measles (old-fashioned measles and three-day measles).

The second clinic will be held on April 17 and the third clinic on May 15. Dental examinations will be done at the third clinic only. Please mark these dates on your calendar.

Vision and Hearing — The Illinois Department of Public Health will conduct vision and hearing screenings for pre-school children, ages three, four, and five years, in the Greenfield School District on April 3, 1973, at the Greenfield Methodist Church.

Please register your child for the screening at the Greenfield Elementary School on Tuesday morning, March 20, and receive your appointment for the testing on April 3.

Daughter Of Mrs. Ravenscroft Of Concord, Dies

Mrs. Naomi Ravenscroft Fischer of East Moline, a native of Morgan county, died Friday at the Illinois hospital in Silvis, Illinois, after a several days illness. She was 44 years of age and the daughter of Mrs. Ruth Cox Ravenscroft of Concord. Mrs. Fischer had been a teacher the past 15 years at Thompson, Illinois, in that community.

She was the wife of Mercier Fischer and is survived by her mother and husband. A half-sister, Mrs. Barbara Burns of Moline, also survives. The deceased was born in Morgan county Aug. 8, 1928, daughter of Fred and Ruth Cox Ravenscroft.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Monday at the Silvis Heights Baptist church with interment to be in National Cemetery Rock Island Arsenal. Memorials are suggested to the Silvis Heights Baptist church.

The family will receive friends this afternoon and evening at Wendt Brothers Funeral Home in Moline.

WJIL Radio has received national recognition for a commercial promotion currently being aired by the station.

The radio advertising bureau has recognized the WJIL Big Country Crossword for inclusion in its presentation of promotional ideas to all its member stations.

WJIL is the first radio station in the United States to use the crossword puzzle in a promotion, although it has been used in the past by newspapers. The idea of the crossword is to correctly complete the official crossword entry blank to win a cash prize.

Each week the Big Country Crossword Puzzle goes without a winner, $50.00 is added to the cash jackpot. Currently, $550 is being offered for a completely correct answer.

Several business in Jacksonville are co-sponsoring the crossword puzzle which is open to all WJIL Big Country listeners in Jacksonville and the surrounding area.

WJIL is an ABC information radio network affiliate with news on the hour and Paul Harvey at 7:30 and 11:30 a.m. Country radio at 1550 on the dial, and St. Louis Cardinal baseball will again be heard on WJIL radio this year.

Bette Says Young Lose

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) —

Frequently, the old stars like to criticize the old studio system. Many of them say how the studios controlled their existence so strongly that they had no freedom. They were peons. Highly-paid peons, but peons nonetheless.

I would have expected Bette Davis to be one of those who blasted the rigid controls of the studios. After all, her fights with Jack Warner are part of Hollywood's body of legend. Maybe she's mellowed but she told me lately that she wouldn't have had it any other way.

In fact, she says she feels sorry for today's young actors who are deprived of the strict, but benevolent, guidance of a major studio.

"Young actors today," Bette says, "have to make up their own minds about what scripts they are going to do. That's too hard and that's why so many of them choose badly."

"When I was at Warners, for 17 years, the studio was my mother, my father, my grandparents. The studio made all my decisions for me and I think now that it was a good thing."

What prompted this conversation was the fact that, by chance, Bette had sat next to Gene Hackman at the dinner honoring Adolph Zukor, the film pioneer, on his 100th birthday. Bette says Gene and she talked about the studio system during dinner.

"He said how much he envied, really envied, me," she says. "The main thing he envied was how the studios were able to give an actor a continuity of career."

He's right. Young actors today don't have that. We would go from picture to picture as the studios built us up, slowly but surely.

"If I was young today I

Bette Davis.

wouldn't become a movie actress for a million dollars. I'd just stay on the stage."

She says that she did a lot of films, in her Warner Bros. years, which weren't very good.

"But I learned from all of them," she says, "and I think they all helped me grow. If I were to die tomorrow I believe there might be five or six things I've done which could be called good. And I was one of the lucky ones."

She just finished something which may not be good but was one her most enjoyable assignments. It was a pilot for a half-hour series done at MGM called "Hello, Mother, Goodbye."

It's a situation comedy about a mother and her two sons. She thinks it has possibilities.

"It was heaven to do," she says. "The MGM-TV people are gentlemen. The director was Peter Hunt, who is marvelous. The cast was great. The sets were magnificent. It was the most fun I've had acting in many years. The day after we finished I got up and felt regret that I didn't have to go to work. That hasn't happened to me in years."

The part she plays has overtones of the Jewish mother of fiction (fact?) even though Bette says she's hardly the Jewish mother type.

"But," she says, "there's a lot of the Jewish mother in every mother. The reason Jewish mothers get that way is because their sons are so good and generally do what their mothers tell them to do."

She calls herself "a typical hard-working Yankee housewife and mother." Her home is Westport, Conn. But she says that there isn't too much mothering left for her to do. Her daughter has been married for nine years and her son is graduating from college this June, about to

'Here We Go Again'

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) —

Television situation comedies often have been accused of being unrealistic. Things like The Beverly Hillbillies and Gilligan's Island and Hogan's Heroes gave teeth to that accusation and even some of the contemporary shows — All in the Family and Maude — are wildly exaggerated.

It's interesting to look at ABC's new sitcom, Here We Go Again, in that light because this one is a 30-minute slice of reality. The man who created it, Robert Kaufman, is living his story every day.

Here We Go Again stars Larry Hagman and Diane Baker as a newlywed couple who each have been married before. Nita Talbot and Dick Gautier are their respective exes.

Bob Kaufman has been there. He is a divorced man and he is writing from the heart — and wallet. The whole thing is so much a part of him that he has even given the character Nita Talbot the name of Judy, which is the name of his ex-wife.

When word of that reached the real Judy, she called Bob.

"I hear you've called the ex-wife Judy on your show," she said.

Bob admitted it and prepared himself for a tirade. But he was in for another surprise.

"Good," Judy said. "Now we'll let the public decide who was right and who was wrong."

He says he doesn't think he'll ever run short of material, of situations to dramatize on the show. In his real life situation, everybody (present wife, ex-wife, everybody) lives close together in Encino, a Los Angeles suburb, and their constant meetings create situations.

Then, too, there are all Bob's friends, most of whom have been divorced one or more times. They keep coming up to him and saying, "Look, Bob, have you done the story yet where she —"

Kaufman began as a press agent, turned to TV writing and graduated to doing films. He got an Oscar nomination for "Divorce, American Style" and also wrote such films as "Getting Straight" and "I Love My Wife."

Why is he back to TV? A couple of reasons, one philosophical and one financial.

"The movies didn't abandon me," he says. "It's just that I found that once I sold a show to a movie studio they wanted nothing more to do with me. They said, 'Get lost.' On TV, you're in for the whole thing."

The other reason, which may be more binding, is that he got married again. His new wife, Patty, does things in a big way.

"She's one of the new group of women," Kaufman says. "She's semi-liberated — which means that she wants to do her own thing but I have to pay for it."

Patty got interested in Arabian horses. He bought nine Arabian horses. They aren't cheap. So he had to go out and find a way to pay for Patty's Arabs.

Kaufman says that between the Arabian horses and the white Mercedes-Benz she bought, Patty has ruined his relationship with his mother.

"She's a Gentile," he says. "As far as my mother was concerned that wasn't too bad. But then she bought Arabs and a German car. Now my mother won't talk to me."

WEAI Will Broadcast More Games

This week Class AA Regional Tournament play-offs begin at Jacksonville High School, and WEAI will broadcast those games as well as the contests at the Class A Sectional in Carlville.

Tuesday night, the Quincy vs. Griffin game at Jacksonville will be on the air, followed by the first game in the Carlville sectional.

Wednesday night, Jacksonville will play Springfield in the Regional Class AA tournament with the broadcast beginning about 7:15, and the second game of the Carlville class A sectional will be heard following the Class AA game.

Then Friday night the championship games of both tournaments will be broadcast play-by-play on WEAI.

The "Evening Report" from 5:30 p.m. to 6:30 continues. It includes a wrap-up of the day's happenings on the world and state scenes, in the Jacksonville area, and in the business world, with reports on sports and weather.

America Is Controversy

By Ernestine Guglielmo

NEW YORK (NEA) — "This Machine Surrounds Hate and Forces It to Surrender" is the message scrawled in black marker around the drum of a worn five-string banjo.

The "machine" is carried by folk singer Pete Seeger everywhere he goes. It has accompanied him in singing out against militarism, racism, poverty, pollution and war. The motto is a gentler version of the one the late Woody Guthrie had on his guitar all during World War II — "This machine kills fascists."

"All my life I've been singing for unpopular causes: unions, peace, civil rights," says Seeger. "But I don't mind singing controversial songs. The best thing about America is the amount of controversy. People all around the world — and I've sung for my supper over the world — say that, despite mistakes, you in the U.S. can speak your mind. America won't solve its problems unless there's argument and controversy."

"When I was a kid, I believed the only way to live with hypocrisy was to be a hermit. My natural inclination is to go off by myself. But for 40 years I've been up to my ears in one form of action or another," says Seeger, relaxing in his publisher's office.

He is a tall, lanky man whose thrust-back head seems to be searching the sky for answers. His greying beard juts out at a peculiar angle as he slumps in his chair and with half-shut eyes reminisces about his 30-year career.

Seeger has been pelted with rocks and with red-baiting headlines ("Commie Singers Try to Infiltrate Radio"). Brought before the House Un-American Activities Committee, he was asked if he had been a service to the Communist party by entertaining for them.

He replied, "I have sung before all kinds of people, of all religions, of all political faiths. I have never tried to propagandize for communism, or for anything else, and I challenge your rights. These questions are improper."

He was cited for contempt of Congress, then on appeal cleared of all charges. In recent years, he has fought to save the Hudson River with the Clearwater Sloop, and has appeared on television, which had long black-listed him.

Pete Seeger didn't invent the protest song. In his new book, "The Incomplete Folk Singer" (Simon and Schuster), he traces its history back to the political songs of medieval minstrels and early union songs. But Pete Seeger has added considerably to the repertoire of protest songs.

He was allowed to sing one of those songs, "Waist Deep in the Big Muddy," on the CBS Smothers Brothers Show only after a nationwide controversy. The song is about the late President Johnson and Vietnam. "Poor old Lyndon," sighs Seeger. "I can't help feeling anything but pity for him, because I can't help thinking about the thousands of lives he would have saved if he had made the right decision."

"Where Have All the Flowers Gone?" is one of the songs written by Seeger which expresses his deep opposition to war. Many of his songs like "Last Train to Nuremberg" (written after My Lai) and "If You Love Your Uncle Sam, Bring Him Home" were sung throughout the demonstrations against the war. Seeger led a half-million demonstrators in a Washington demonstration in November of 1969 singing a short phrase from one of John Lennon's songs: "All we are saying is give peace a chance."

Seeger's antiwar feelings are matched by his passionate patriotism. "I was raised a Yankee, but learned my music down South," says Seeger as he explains feelings toward America.

"Only once I remember really getting mad," he says. "A couple in Mexico said they left the U.S. because 'A country that doesn't respect the people doesn't deserve their support.' I believe people who don't love their country enough to fight to make it better don't deserve a country."

Seeger unconsciously fiddles with the stems of his wire frame eyeglasses as though he hadn't noticed they weren't his banjo.

Apt Ideas

By JIM HUFNAGEL

Written For Associated Press
Don't be quick to reject drawings as too pedestrian for display in your apartment. Drawing is, after all, a universal urge. It may also be man's oldest art form. Remember the beasts on Paleolithic cave walls? And it's a primary step in the creation of most other art. For that matter, a finished drawing is as full-fledged an artistic expression as a painting or a print. In at least one regard, drawings are even more precious than prints — they come only one of a kind. Granted, there's a lot of orinary drawing around. But the current drawing renaissance among talented young artists has inspired a notable increase in shows at galleries and museums. As a result, there are more top-notch drawings for sale than ever before.

Defined as two-dimensional art that's neither painted nor printed, drawings come in many guises. Just about anything that marks qualifies as a transferring medium — pencil, charcoal, chalk, ink, conte crayon, wax crayon, graphite, ballpoint, even dirty fingers. A mix of two or more of the above qualifies, too. So expect standing, rubbing, scratching, tracing, transferring, embossing, smearing and smudging. And drawers as well as painters use collage — additional paper or cloth pieces glued onto the original paper surface. The artist's vision decides the size of a drawing. Most contemporary finished drawings run about the same size as fine prints.

Prices run a little higher, though, due to the medium's singular nature. Expect to pay at least half again, or even twice as much for a quality drawing as you would for a comparable original print. One hundred to $200 isn't exorbitant for a large drawing that reflects lots of labor and skill.

Like prints, drawings should be framed for display. Paper's more perishable than canvas so before sealing a drawing behind glass, you might want to additionally protect it with a light coating of spray fixative — the kind you can buy at any art supply store. Your drawing may have already been given a coating by its creator. But better two coats of fixative than a smudged drawing.

Matting is the most common way to finish off a drawing. Floating the work on top of a mat board, instead of behind a window in it, is another popular and attractive method. You can also frame a big drawing unmatted. In fact, you probably should if it's very large. This will reduce weight and save several square inches of expensive glass.

Passavant's Diet Recipes New Each Week

"Invest in Yourself — Buy Nutrition." This motto for National Nutrition Week, March 4-11, will be emphasized throughout March in columns from the dietary department of the Passavant Memorial Area Hospital Association.

"With food prices at record highs, it is especially important now that our dollars buy those foods which help supply daily vitamin and mineral requirements," advises Mrs. Colleen Seely, R.D., of the PMAHA staff.

Good nutritional planning does not require expert knowledge of vitamins and minerals, however. To simplify the job, the necessary foods have been divided into four groups, known as the "basic four."

Group one includes meats, fish, poultry, and other high protein foods; adults need two three-ounce servings of Group One foods daily.

Group two includes fruits and vegetables; a minimum of four servings from this group is required daily, including one source of vitamin C, such as oranges, grapefruit, lemons, and pineapple.

Breads and cereals constitute Group three; adults require four servings daily.

Group four includes milk and dairy products; we never outgrow our need for milk. Even adults should have at least two glasses of milk or its equivalent daily. Children require larger quantities.

This week's recipes are good for busy days, being easy to prepare. They are good ways to serve Group Two foods in a hurry.

Mixed Fruit Salad
1 can ready-to-use fruit pie filling (peach or apricot are good choices)
1 No. 303 can pineapple chunks, drained
1 can mandarin oranges, drained
2 bananas, sliced
1 cup sliced fresh strawberries (optional)
Mix all ingredients and chill. Garnish with more berries. Amounts and kinds of fruits may be varied to taste.

Green Beans
in Mushroom Sauce
2 cans French style green beans
1 can cream of mushroom soup
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. monosodium glutamate
1/4 tsp. pepper
2 tbsp. chopped onion
Combine all ingredients; heat through on top of stove. Or, if oven is in use, place ingredients in casserole and heat in oven at least 30 minutes.

Mrs. Seely will answer questions about nutritional meal planning during the What's On Your Mind program on Radio Station WLDS Monday morning, March 4, at 9:30 a.m.

1 cup cranberry orange relish, from a 14-ounce jar
1/2 cup chopped walnuts of pecans
Whip cream. Fold in cranberry orange relish. Spoon into 6 small dessert dishes; sprinkle with nuts. Serve at once. Makes 6 servings.

This knowledge is vital not only for doing some minor pipe work but in case the toilet's cup runneth over. Preferably, do a "better safe than sorry" bit and find where any or all of these cut-offs are soon after moving in.

Apartments, especially old ones, are something else again. Some just blissfully ignore the fixture cut-off valves. You might as well do the same and pray a little. If disaster strikes, run for the super and hope he's around to turn off the water.
Mercifully, there is usually a cut-off valve (a wheel-looking thing or two if there is hot and cold water) on the pipe leading to each plumbing fixture.

coming up through the small space where the stem meets the handle (instead of out of the hole it's supposed to) there's a seal called a packing nut.
To fix what ails most faucets you have to get the handle off first. The big trick with some is to find the screw or nut that keeps the handle in place. Keep looking. It's there somewhere. Most times it's disguised as the H or C. These usually will either snap out or unscrew. Turn off the water if you haven't already.
Note the angle of the handle in the "off" position so you can put it back in the same place when finished. To get the handle off, if you're involved with a chrome nut, cover either that or the pliers (wrench, depending on size) with tape so that the teeth won't munch on the finish. Remove the screw on the handle and work the handle free of the stem. The handle may be stubborn. If so, gently "force" it off with a screwdriver or move it back and forth with your hands.

Leaky faucet. If the problem is drip, drip and it's driving you nuts, look to the washer. Since you may not know what kind of washer is in there, buy an inexpensive assortment package at the five-and-ten, hardware store or supermarket. Get this before you begin your repairs. Now loosen and remove the packing nut, then the stem. Keep the parts in order so you don't add complications when reassembling.

You'll find a screw in the bottom of the stem. If the screw gives you trouble, pry out the washer from around it and then use pliers to remove the screw. If it's corroded or defective, replace the screw with a new brass one. Pick out a new washer that is the exact size and shape as the old and put it on with the rounded side down (if there is a rounded side. Some washers are flat.)
Bathtub and shower faucets are identical to those in the sink. However, they are Leaky pipes. If one of the lead-in pipes to any of the fixtures springs a pinhole leak, your finger in the dike can be epoxy cement. It promises to seal even wet surfaces and it does fairly well. However, if you can turn off the water, the cement will work easier and faster, because it doesn't have to battle water pressure. This will not work on a real blow-out. When this happens, turn off the water and call for professional help.

The late George S. Kaufman was talking about a certain player.

George said, "There are two ways to tell when he has a good hand. First, his face lights up. Second, he misplays it."

South's face lit up when he looked up at his rockcrusher. He boomed out his one-heart call and leaped to four hearts after the one-spade response.

Before dummy hit the table he remarked, "I probably of three trump tricks, but if the should have bid more."

He won the diamond lead and promptly played his ace and jack of hearts. Later on he had to lose two more hearts and a club and was one trick short of his contract.

"Trumps never break for me," was his complaint.

Do you see where he went wrong? All he had to do was to use a little common sense when he played the trump suit. He could afford to lose two trump tricks so that he had no worries about a 3-3 trump break. How about a 4-2 trump break?

If either opponent held king-queen-nine-small (the eight had dropped under the ace) there was no way to avoid the loss of three trump tricks, but if the trump honors were divided as was the case he would be all right if he just led a low trump instead of the jack.

Fulmer couple of Pearl will celebrate Mar. 11

PEARL — Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fulmer of Pearl, Illinois, route one, will be honored at an Open House Sunday afternoon, March 11, from 3 to 5 p.m. at the Milton Community Center.

They will be observing their 40th wedding anniversary. Friends and relatives are invited to attend. They request that all gifts be omitted.

Mrs. Fulmer is the former Irene Daniels, daughter of the late Frank and Lily Daniels. Mr. Fulmer is the son of the late Charles and Annis Fulmer. They were married March 11, 1933, at Madison, Illinois. The Rev. H. M. Thomas officiated. Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Barr of Madison, Illinois, aunt and uncle of the bride, were their attendants.

Mr. and Mrs. Fulmer are the parents of one child, Mrs. Wayne (Shirley) Hoots of Milton. Charles and Maurice Hoots are their only grandchildren. Mrs. Louise Molnar, a sister of Mrs. Fulmer, has been like a daughter to them. She, with her husband George and daughter Tina, lives in Fairmount City, Ill. Their son, George, Jr., and family live in St. Charles, Missouri.

Mr. Fulmer is a retired farmer. At one time he was a construction worker and was Montezuma Township Road Commissioner from 1963 until 1971.

Married Couples class banquet at Central Christian

The Married Couple class of Central Christian church met Feb. 23rd in Fellowship Hall. Tables were decorated with cherry trees, flags and new yearbooks for the annual banquet. The books were compliments of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Hardin.

The delicious meal was prepared by the Nimmer-Mills CWF Group. Mrs. A. G. Stainforth gave an impressive eulogy for Ben Roodhouse and Glenn Ingles. After group singing Mrs. Nan Johnson, accompanied by Mrs. Ruth Ranson, sang Sunrise, Sunset and Garden of Today.

Mrs. Ernest Savage showed slides of roses and told of the history of the Rose, likening the blossom to before the time of the Garden of Eden, and illustrating with the rose in poetry, and emblem of perfection. Song by Mrs. Johnson and prayer by Rev. Sturgess closed the meeting.

Acree-Lockhart vows pledged at Our Saviour's

Miss Roberta Lockhart of Literberry and Rick Acree of Jacksonville were united in marriage Saturday, February 24th, at Church of Our Saviour's with Father Ken Ventrollo officiating.

The bride wore a polysheer and cotton lace wedding gown with ruffle edging at the deep V bib yoke of the bodice, made with Bishop sleeves. The floor-length dress had a detachable chapel train edged with matching lace. A lace Camelot headdress held her elbow-length illusion veil, bordered in lace. She carried a nosegay of white roses, carnations and baby's breath.

The bride's sisters were her attendants: Mrs. John Kindred, matron of honor, and Mrs. James E. Johnson, Franklin, bridesmatron. They were dressed alike in scarlet velvet trimmed in white Cluny lace and each wore a hair braid picture hat. A single long-stemmed white rose was carried by each attendant.

The mother of the bride wore a navy knit ensemble and the groom's mother a royal blue knit costume. Each wore a corsage of red-tipped white carnations.

Richard Osborne was best man and Cedric Fisher groomsmen. Ushers were John T. Lockhart and George Lockhart, brothers of the bride; Robert Acree, brother of the groom; and Ronnie Ward.

Mac alums '1st nighter' for The Little Foxes

A dinner-theatre event is planned by Jacksonville MacMurray Alumnae Association for Friday, March 16, as a "first nighter" for The Little Foxes by playwright Lillian Hellman.

A hospitality hour will precede a buffet dinner at the Beef and the Bird, Dunlap Motor Inn, starting at 5:30 with serving at 6:30 p.m. Before leaving for MacMurray Little Theatre, Royal Ward, production director, will provide insights into the plot of this fascinating study of a southern family at the turn of the century and the historical background of the play.

Friends of the college interested in the "first nighter" event may make reservations by mailing a check to Mrs. John Spinning, 16 Terry Drive, Jacksonville, in the amount of $6.50 per person which covers the dinner and theatre admission.

Persons currently MacMurray theatre patrons have cost set at $4.50. Reservations are limited and on first come, first serve basis. Proceeds aid the association's local scholarship fund.

Wilber Chapter seeks members

Announcement was made at the Feb. 22nd meeting of Wilber Chapter Order of Eastern Star that a membership drive is currently underway. Worthy matron Mabel Symmonds presided with Guy Symmonds as worthy patron.

Each member is urged to acquire a new member within a 30 day period. The altar was draped in memory of Past Worthy Grand Matron Sarah Daniels. Nan Johnson read resolutions in respect to Chapter members Idella Phillips and Marian May, recently deceased.

The official visit from the Worthy Grand Matron to the Chapter will be in August. Hospitality stays were reported for Carol Garner, recently home from Norris; Bob Garner, home from a Tampa, Fla. hospital; Bertha Dunnaway at Modern Care and Earl Muckelston ill at his home.

The next meeting will be Past Officers Night. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by Merna Lyons and Dorothy Birdsell. A red, white and blue color combination was carried out.

RESEARCH IS IN PROGRESS, designs are being reviewed, and paint brushes are in readiness as the stage construction committee, under experienced direction of co-chairmen Mr. and Mrs. Robert Veness and Mr. and Mrs. David Watson, bring to reality the artistic stage design of Anthony Zaleski, Gallery Director.

With the coming alive of the stage setting is engendered the additional excitement and anticipation of a truly historic and nostalgic glimpse of life in the 1800's.

Shown above is Mr. Veness between David and Mrs. Watson. Mrs. Veness was not present when the picture was taken.

Committee members sharing this responsibility are Mr. and Mrs. John Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Damrau, Mr. and Mrs. William Freeman, John Pine, Mr. and Mrs. David Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Roy Jackson, Jr., Joe Hankins, Mrs. Martha Franseen, Mr. and Mrs. David Mudgett, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Frank, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Dame, Mrs. Harold Sorrells, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Peebles.

A committee that works quietly in the background with little publicity but one that performs a vital and necessary service is the Stage Dismantling Committee (not pictured) whose co-chairmen Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Evans and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Walker bring expertise and experience to a most important and responsible committee function. This committee is responsible for the careful pulling down of all stage sets; for the storage of these sets for future use; and for the return of all borrowed properties. Committee members are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Langdon.

Dr. Robert Hartman

The program for the Jacksonville Woman's club this coming Saturday afternoon, March 10th, at the Beef and Bird, will be Dr. Robert Hartman of Jacksonville, obstetrician and gynecologist, speaking on What's Going On.

Crisis in the Health Room will be narrated by Mrs. Richard Snodgrass. The afternoon opens with a Dessert Tea from 1:15 to meeting time at two o'clock, with the president, Mrs. Robert Hierman, presiding.

Greeters for the meeting will be Mrs. Jesse Kinnett and Mrs. Eugene Martin. Club members are invited to the Prayer Breakfast at 9 a.m. Tuesday at Trinity Episcopal church, being sponsored by Jacksonville Junior Woman's club. The time is early enough for board members of the Jacksonville club to attend and still arrive at the Library for a board meeting at 10.

The nominating committee will be completed at the Saturday meeting.

The Rev. Dale Robb, pastor of the First Presbyterian church will be the guest speaker at the Prayer breakfast Tuesday, March 6, from 9-10 a.m. at the Trinity Episcopal church. The breakfast is being sponsored by the Home Life committee of the Jacksonville Junior Woman's Club under the chairmanship of Mrs. John Gosse.

Rev. Dale Robb

Mr. Robb has been pastor in Jacksonville since 1962. He has been active in community organizations, including leadership in the Greater Jacksonville Council of Churches and service as Chairman of the City of Jacksonville Commission on Human Relations.

Prior to 1962, he served some thirteen years in campus ministries including nine years as director of the Westminster Foundation at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, where he also earned a master's degree in history; one year as acting director of the Bangkok Student Christian Center, Bangkok, Thailand; and three years as Associate General Secretary of the Korean Student Christian Movement, Seoul, Korea.

Participating also in the Prayer breakfast will be Rev. Harold Woodworth of the Salem Lutheran church, Rev. Harry Mattingly, First Baptist church, Father William Malottke, Episcopal church, Right Reverend Monsignor Michael O. Driscoll of Our Saviour's and the Salem Lutheran Children's Choir.

All interested persons are welcome to the Prayer Breakfast. There will be a nursery for small children.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Megginson

The twenty-fifth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Megginson of Murrayville will be Tuesday, March sixth. A family dinner is planned for the occasion. Mrs. Megginson is the former Anita Jones of Literberry. They were married March 6, 1948 in Jacksonville by the Reverend William J. Boston of Jacksonville, pastor of Liter Baptist church.

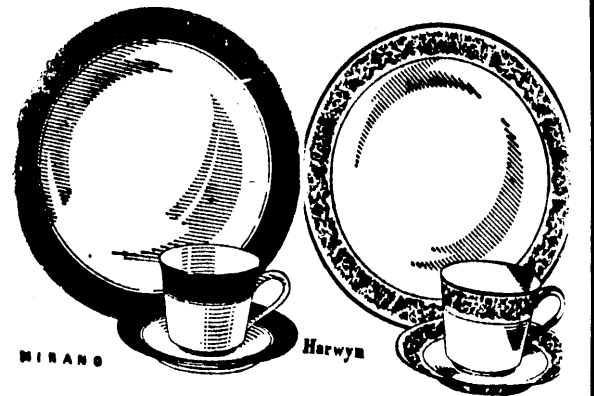

Mr. and Mrs. Megginson have spent their entire married life in the Woodson-Murrayville community. Mr. Megginson is in the trucking business and Mrs. Megginson is employed at Lakin Locker Service at Murrayville. They are parents of two children, Ronald Dean Megginson and Sandra Sue, both of Murrayville. There is a grandson, Douglas Jay Megginson.

Floor Fashions

By HUGH W. BRADSHAW

THE SHAGGY CARPET STORY is only just beginning, it seems. This most popular of today's carpets is not through adapting and changing its ways to take its place in today's casual surroundings.

You can have shags, for instance, that are multi-level, combining very long and short fibers to create new textured beauty that is ever changing. And patterned shags are beginning to make their appearance on the floor fashion scene.

Brighter colors and brighter fibers are seen in all the new carpets, including shags. And the delicious new combinations of colors give you almost unlimited decorating versatility. You'll find these blends in bold colors and patterns, and also in very subtle combinations of two, three or more colors.

Shaggy carpets look and feel luxurious, the long, long pile taking much of the credit. And now the carpet designers have discovered there is great variety possible in textures and patterns working with these longer length yarns.

Discover the shaggy story for yourself and your home by visiting our extensive carpet displays, featuring the collections of America's foremost carpet designers and manufacturers. The long story is a great value story, too!

BPW Hear Of Adolescent Ward At State

Youth was emphasized at the March 1st dinner meeting of Jacksonville Business and Professional Woman's club held at Beef and Bird. The speaker was Carolyn Lepper, who told of the program at Jacksonville State Hospital for Adolescents, 13 to 18 years of age.

The speaker is a clinical worker and treatment coordinator at the hospital. She has contact with young people at the hospital from an 18-county area. They are being treated for behavior problems and to prepare them for return to society. Goals, reasonable ones, are attained along with domestic and vocational training and regular schooling.

The meeting was conducted by the president, Miss Frances Woodrum. Eloise Tholen as program chairman introduced the speaker. June Cantrell and Mrs. Tholen were in charge of table decorations, shamrocks and a floral centerpiece of daffodils and pussy willows. Connie Fox assisted Mrs. Cantrell and Mrs. Tholen.

Lucille Chandler led in singing Irish songs. Several local BPW members will be attending the March 13th District meeting in Macomb. Mrs. Nancy Maw-

A report was heard of the Feb. 24th state legislation meeting. A nominating committee was named, Elizabeth Hardy, chairman, Mamie and June Cantrell.

The club will donate ten dollars to the Cancer Drive. The latter asked for help from club members. A thank you was read from Marian Patterson. Plants on tables were awarded as door prizes.

Soroptimist Director will visit club here

Members of the Soroptimist club met Feb. 26th at the home of Ruth Howard for a business session. Beth McPeck was co-hostesses. After the pledge to the flag, led by Hazel Graves, 13 responded to roll.

Dorothy Hess, president, announced a nominating committee, Katherine Adams, chairman, Ruth Howard and Maurine Brennan, to prepare a proposed slate of officers.

The March 12th dinner meeting at the Beef and Bird will have the business and program meeting combined. The board will be meeting 30 minutes prior to the dinner time of 6:30 p.m. The speaker will be Soroptimist District 1 Director Pauline Davis of Shawnee Mission, Kansas.

Committee chairmen are to have annual reports, in duplicate, at this meeting.

Grace UMW to hear Mrs. Elias, attend breakfast

The program for the Wednesday, March 7th, meeting of Grace United Methodist Women, in the church parlor at 1 p.m. will be given by Mrs. Barney Elias on The Holy Spirit. Members of the Barbara Schaefer Circle will be hostesses, Mrs. Dewey Muir, chairman.

The executive board of the Grace United Methodist Women will meet at the church at 8:45 a.m. Tuesday, March 6th, and go as a group to the Prayer Breakfast at Trinity Episcopal church at 9 a.m., being sponsored by the Jacksonville Junior Woman's club. There is no charge for the breakfast, but an offering taken will benefit purchase of toys for the pediatric ward of Norris hospital. The executive board meeting at 10 a.m. will follow the breakfast.

Beta Sigma Phi News Notes

Gamma and Xi Alpha Upsilon chapters of Beta Sigma Phi met Monday evening, February 26, at the home of Mary Margaret Withee with Wilma Simmons as assistant hostess. Seventeen members and honorary member, Mrs. Sherwood Eddy, were present.

During the business session, presided over by Gamma president Elma Savage, it was announced Beta Sigma Phi will shortly be publishing a gourmet cookbook and chapters are invited to submit recipes.

Program chairman Mary Margaret Withee introduced fellow member Lois Wells who presented an informative program on wines with special emphasis on those produced in France. Dorothy Crabtree was the winner of the door prize—a bottle of French wine. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses at the close of the meeting.

Popular Pastels
The delicate pastels that brighten up fall and winter will, of course, remain popular for warmer months. But a different look comes with dark, muted colors in lightweight fabrics for spring. Contrasting the light and dark will be a popular look.

BLOOMINGTON - NORMAL
—A religious and social experience that she considers "a chance of a lifetime" will start May 30 for Laura Baker, an Illinois State University junior from Pittsfield.

On that date Laura will join 19 other college and university students in a flight from the Toronto Christian Mission in Canada for Vienna, Austria, where the group will serve as missionary interns for the TCM European program.

The Canadian and American students will spend 10 weeks with missionary families sponsored by the TCM in Vienna traveling throughout Czechoslovakia, Austria, Poland, Hungary, Yugoslavia, Greece and East and West Germany.

They will be "adopted" by missionary families, four or five to the family, and will spend almost all of the time as student missionaries on behalf of the Toronto organization.

Laura is most excited about visiting Vienna, since she is a music major at Illinois State. A student at Lincoln Bible College for two years before coming to State, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Baker, R.2, Pittsfield.

Her home church is the Detroit Christian Church, seven miles east of Pittsfield.

Here & There

Mr. and Mrs. David Finney entertained at their home in Virginia over last weekend classmates of Mr. Finney's when he was a student at the University of Illinois College of Pharmacy. They were Mr. and Mrs. Bud Tyler of DeKalb, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Lewis of Canton, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Miles of Pittsfield.

Shoe Business
Fuller-cut pant legs focus attention on clunky heels and platforms, that are climbing ever higher. Many are adding color to already colorful shoes by painting or adding decals to heels.

Laura is now seeking financial support from area church organizations to help with the $1,200 cost of participating in the evangelistic effort.

She and a group of 20 student members of Christian Collegians at Illinois State University visited Laura's home church at Detroit last Sunday to announce the program.

They were accompanied by the Rev. J. David Lang, Illinois State campus advisor for Christian Collegians, who can furnish further information about the project and other efforts of the youth work affiliated with the Christian Church in the ISU community.

GETTING READY FOR LENT

A Challenge Of Folk Religion

By REV. DAVID POLING
Each week, when Congress is in session, some 15 or 20 senators gather for breakfast and discussion. These men of different party and denominational persuasion are joined in a deep fellowship: prayer. Throughout the year they meet, with invited guests, to ponder the deep questions of life, to share insights of the Bible and consider their calling as men who believe in God.

Over the years the only non-senator present was columnist and editor David Lawrence. Close to many of the senators and concerned with the larger spiritual questions that every thoughtful person must ponder, he became a regular and faithful participant. His death will be a real loss to this vital gathering.

And so is the tragic shooting of Senator Stennis. This Southern Presbyterian is unofficial greeter of the weekly prayer breakfast that continually sends word of comfort and hope to his hospital bedside.

Another active member is Senator Mark Hatfield who addressed the national prayer breakfast in Washington a month ago. His remarks to that august group (including President Nixon, military leaders and congressmen) deserve a wide readership. And much has clear relationship to Lent and the journey of one's soul.

"Events such as this prayer breakfast contain the real danger of misplaced allegiance if not downright idolatry to the extent that they fail to distinguish between the god of civil religions and the God who reveals himself in the Holy Scriptures and in Jesus Christ. If we as leaders appeal to the god of civil religion, then our faith is in a small and exclusive deity, a loyal spiritual Advisor

"But if we pray to the Biblical God of justice and righteousness we fall under the God's judgment for calling upon his name, but failing to obey his commands. God in the Bible states that acceptable worship and obedience are expressed by specific acts of love and justice. We sit here today as the wealthy and the powerful. But let us not forget that those who truly follow Christ will more often find themselves not with comfortable majorities, but with miserable minorities.

"Today our prayers must begin with repentance. Individually we must seek forgiveness for the exile of love from our hearts and corporately as a people we must turn in repentance from that sin that has scarred our national soul. What is needed is a 'confessing church' — a body of people who confess Jesus as Lord and are prepared to live by their confession.

"Lives under the Lordship of Jesus Christ at this point in our history may well put us at odds with values of our society, abuses of political power and cultural conformity of our church.

"We need those who seek to honor the claims of discipleship — those who live in active obedience to the call: do not be conformed to this world but be transformed by the renewal of your mind. We must be continually transformed by Jesus Christ and take his commands seriously. Let us be Christ's messengers of reconciliation and peace. Then we can soothe the wounds of war and renew the face of the earth and all mankind."

Chandlerville Students Enter Essay Contest

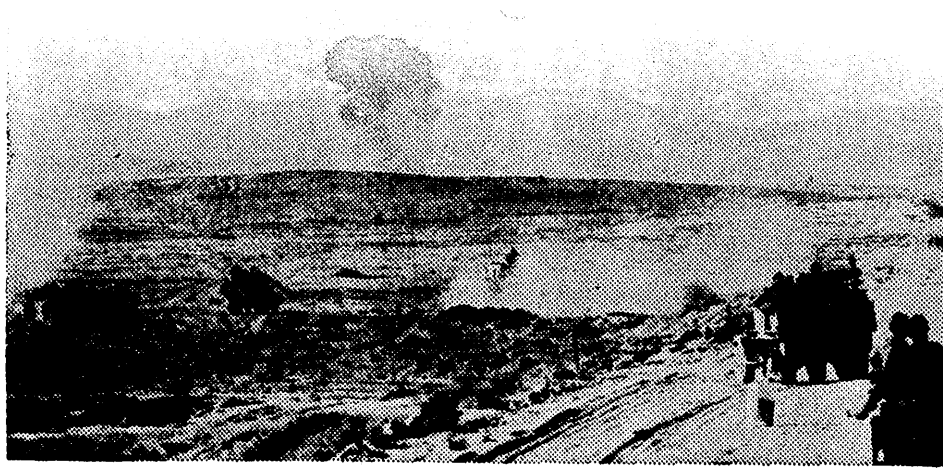

CHANDLERVILLE — Students of the Chandlerville high school, recently participated in the annual American Legion Essay contest. The subject of this year's essay was Citizenship—Why It Is a Priceless Heritage. The students submitted a paper of 500 words, expressing their views on the subject.

The essays were judged on the originality of presentation, content neatness, and form. The local chapter of the American Legion Auxiliary judged the essays and awarded their prizes in each class: first place, three dollars; second place, two dollars; third place, one dollar. The winners' papers were sent on for further state and national competition.

Following are the winners arranged by classes: Eighth grade: first, Todd Cloninger; second, Colleen Stuhmer; and third, Kim Genseal.

Freshman and Sophomore: first, Theresa Standish; second, Karen Snyder; and third, Kelly Shores.

Junior and Senior: first, Thomas Finn; second, Monica Webster; and third, Michael Turner.

AN EXERCISE, it's called, as Israeli artillery fire clouds the horizon in the Jordan Valley. It's the Golan Brigade or a 24-hour "attack" on "fortified positions."

Cass Rotary To Observe 50th Anniversary

BEARDSTOWN - Members of the Beardstown Rotary club are making plans to observe their 50th anniversary. Rotaryans will also be present for a dinner to be served at the Virginia Country Club the evening of March 26.

At their last meeting Beardstown Rotary members heard an address by Ken Buckley, and he congratulated the club on being among the high donors to the Rotary Foundation. He detailed much of the history of Rotary in an interesting and informative manner.

The Beardstown club was organized Feb. 1, 1923 with George Griggs as the first president, and the Rev. Arthur E. Beddoes the first secretary. Joe DeSollar, assistant cashier at the First National Bank, has been chosen president of the Beardstown Rotary club.

Mearle Griffith, local publisher, is the new vice president and Robert N. Buck, cashier of the First State Bank, is the new treasurer.

J.W. Lawler continues as executive director and secretary to the board of directors.

Merrill Masten, 52, was killed Friday afternoon when he fell into a grain bin on his grain and hog farm southwest of Virginia.

According to Cass County Coroner Richard Pugh, Mr. Masten and his son, Nyles, were preparing to empty the 25-foot high bin to haul the grain to an elevator.

Nyles left the area and upon his return saw a ladder at the side of the bin but could not locate his father. He then summoned neighbors and the sheriff's department to assist him.

About 12 neighbors and police had worked about an hour emptying the corn bin when they saw Mr. Masten's leg protruding from the grain. They attached a rope to the body but the grain caved in around it.

It was another hour before the body was recovered at 5:30 p.m.

The bin was about a quarter full when Mr. Masten's body was retrieved.

Corn near the top of a bin sometimes weathers and forms a crust. Mr. Masten may have been dislodging the crust so the grain would flow freely from the bin when he fell into the grain, Pugh said.

Pugh said death was caused by suffocation.

Obituary

Merrill Masten, was born Nov. 1, 1920, in Jacksonville, a son of James W. and Lena Davis Masten. Mrs. Masten survives her son and resides in Jacksonville.

He was married to the former Ruth Ginder July 18, 1942, at Virginia. She survives with two daughters and a son, Mrs. Norman (Marilyn) Siegle of rural Jacksonville; Miss Venita Masten, at home; Nyles Masten of rural Jacksonville, and a granddaughter, Audra Ruth Masten.

He was a member of the Literberry Baptist Church, Cass-Morgan Farm Bureau, and a committee member of the ASCS.

The body is at the Gillham-Buchanan Funeral Home where services will be held at 10 a.m. Monday, the Rev. William J. Boston officiating. Burial will be in Memorial Lawn cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 7 to 9 p.m.

Sunday, Friends wishing to do so may consider memorials to the Literberry Baptist Church.

Klan Focusing Critical Eye On Pornography

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) - The Ku Klux Klan is focusing a critical eye on pornography.

"Other respectable social organizations" should do the same, says Robert M. Shelton of Tuscaloosa, imperial wizard of United Klans of America.

Shelton said in an interview Thursday that the war on smut is merely a branching out of activities. Over the years, Klan targets have included Jews, Catholics, liquor and racial integration.

"We're still involved in educating people to the evils of busing students, and we're behind the scenes in some court battles," he said.

Thus far in its assault on X-rated films, the Klan has singled out theaters in Gadsden, Ala., and Lake Wales, Fla., Shelton said, adding: "By spring, we'll be in full force in several states, including Georgia, Mississippi, Kansas and Montana."

The imperial wizard, who said he has not seen an X-rated movie or even an R-rated one, said Klansmen who volunteer to view the films to take notes have reported their contents to him.

Bookstores have been staked out in some locations, Shelton said. He added that, from all indications, the potential visitor to a pornography shop "has a tendency to fall into the freakish category."

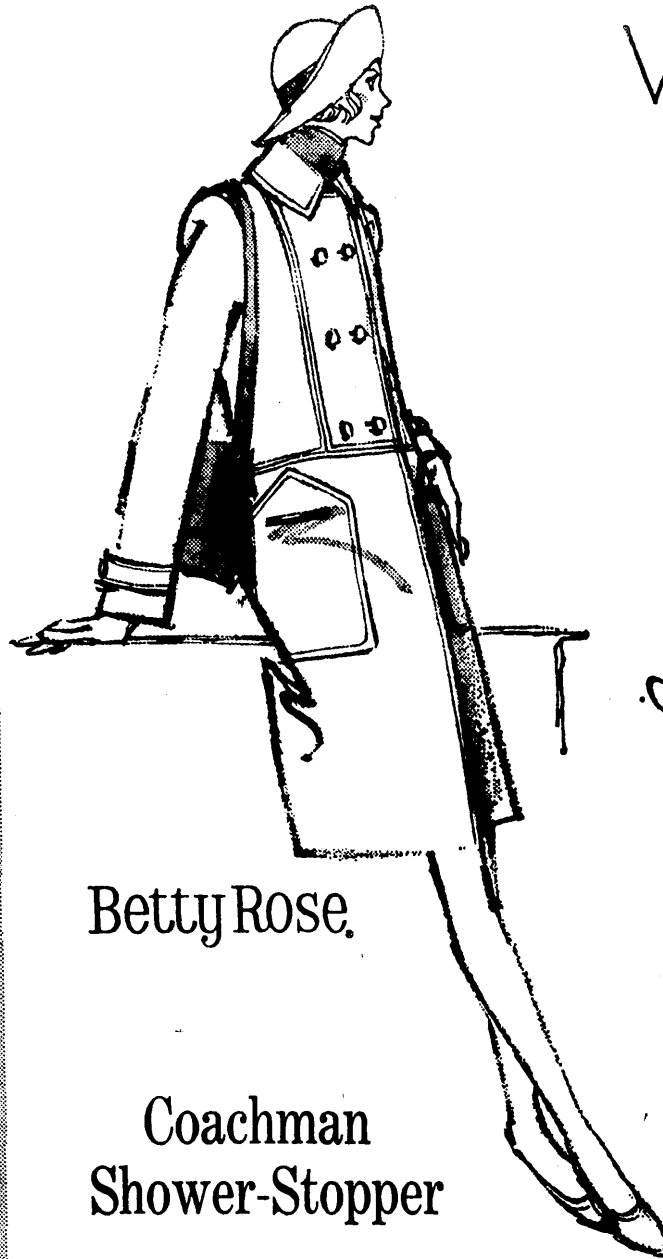

"We have at several smut locations across the nation hidden cameras taking pictures of everyone entering the premises of these pornography palaces," Shelton said. "Their pictures will be filed in our local offices to work in conjunction with the local police departments."

He said no police department has requested the Klan's help.

The University of California was established March 23, 1868.

SASSAFRASS
Back in the depression years when I was a kid, Dad worked at Peabody Coal Mine number 7 at Kincaid as a tracklayer. A multi-talented man, he also moonlighted as a carpenter and house builder—in fact, he built our three room house with the help of friends and relatives. He and Mom worked hard, long hours to provide for a constantly growing family, we wound up with ten kids! Though money was always a bit short, our food was always plentiful and nourishing.
I guess, by today's standards, we were raised on organically grown soul foods—home grown, home canned, cured, dried, smoked and preserved. Wild foods and game were an important part of our limited budget, with all family members old enough to help doing their share. We raised ducks, geese, rabbits, chickens, pigs, goats and children. Dad did the butchering, supervised the curing and helped some in the processing. We all gathered, stemmed, stoned, peeled, hulled and helped wash jars and can or preserve. Fish, game, greens, sassafras, wild honey, sorghum, fruits, jellies, pickles, eggs, milk, meat—you name it—we grew or hunted it. Sulphur and molasses, greens and sassafras tea spelled Spring, so, about this time of year, the whole family would go sassafrassing.
The earliest warm weekend the ground was thawed a bit, the group would bundle up. Dad would shoulder his ax, mom and us older kids either carrying or leading a young'un, off we'd hike to the nearest sassafras grove edging a dirt road at the edge of town or timber edges along the South Fork of the Sangamon east of town. We all learned to identify sassafras by its growth habit—the straight, clean lines of trunk and branches, it's color — it's the first brush that shows green after the turn of the year, and its distinctive, aromatic taste. The blunt, smooth twigs have an unmistakable flavor, reminds one of medicine because it is used in medicines to cover the unpleasant taste of other ingredients, twigs and roots taste different, but both make fragrant tea.
We kids would help scrape the dirt and leaves away to expose the roots, following them out and down till they disappeared in the direction of China, then Dad would "axe 'em out nicely." Back home, the roots were scrubbed, cut and split in thin slivers, covered with cold water and simmered for about 30 minutes, or till the tea was a nice clear red, sweetened with sugar or wild honey—delicious. We were always cautioned about drinking too much because it was supposed to "thin the blood", and, with that many kids, the chances of causing our own "Johnson" flood were pretty good.
Mom says the twigs made good "snuff brushes" back in the Ozarks where she grew up, a small piece of twig was gently "chawed" on one end till the fibers separated into a brush, which was then dipped and rolled in powdered snuff and tucked in the jaw. School masters and "marms" were often quite put out about the brown stains near the seats of big boys learning the three Rs in the one room country school houses. Sometimes the ink wells built into the desks didn't contain ink, either!
I have always had a large kettle of sassafras tea, sweetened with maple syrup at the syrup camps I've been running the past eight years, and some fresh roots for visiting children to take home with them. We also found that sassafras, maple syrup and a drop of apricot brandy make an extremely good tasting, warming pick-me-up for outdoor appetites.
SASSAFRASS JELLY is easy and beautiful — just stir ½ teaspoon sour salt (citric acid) and 1 package powdered pectin into 3 cups strong tea, bring to a boil, stirring constantly, add 4 cups sugar, bring to a boil again and boil hard for 1 minute. Skim and pour into hot sterilized jars and seal.
SASSAFRASS-HONEY JELLY uses 1 package of powdered pectin dissolved in 2 cups of tea, bring to a boil, add 3 cups strained honey, (wild preferred) and a handful of clean root slivers, bring to a boil and simmer about 5 minutes. Strain out the root, pour into sterilized jars and seal. The slivers make a geeosh good; nibble either fresh or dried.
The leaves, when dried and powdered are called filee or file, are used in Creole cookery to impart a subtle flavor accent and thickening, mucilaginous quality. Fresh leaves may be added to tossed salads. Chips of sassafras roots in a small open-weave bag will repel moths in closets and tucked in drawers with woollens, keep them safe plus making things smell outdoors

Mrs. Ruth White was appointed

Passavant Memorial Hospital Chaplain Dennis Saylor was the speaker at the meeting of the Rotary club last week. He was introduced by Wallace Jamison. Mr. Saylor declared the hospital has a forward-looking program of spiritual and social aid for its patients. The latter come to the hospital primarily to fulfill physical needs, but the hospital leadership recognizes the spiritual needs of patients and their families, either as a liaison with local pastors, or helping directly when there is no other spiritual adviser. Mr. Saylor's duties include Norris hospital as well as Passavant.
Clifford Crone presided at the meeting. Two new members were inducted into the club by member William N. Malotke.

YOUR BIRTHDAY AND HOROSCOPE

By STELLA WILDER
SUNDAY, MARCH 4 — Born today, you are a highly creative person who is always looking for ways to improve his natural talents. You do not deceive yourself into thinking that you can achieve what your abilities indicate ought to be your success without the hard and constant cultivation of your gifts. To this end, then, you are willing to put forth a great deal of effort; your only expectation is that you shall eventually be rewarded with the benefits and acclaim due such effort when it is in combination with such talent as is yours. Constantly renewed and re-inspired by nothing more than the passage of time, it is not easy for you to become discouraged — and almost impossible for you to give up any goal toward which you have been working. You believe wholeheartedly in the worth of whatever you are attempting — for you believe wholeheartedly that you would never set yourself an unattainable aim. No modern Don Quixote, the dreams you dream for yourself can with work and persistence come true. You enjoy all kinds of social contact with other people — but your chief source of pleasure where people are concerned has to do with what you fear may be a fading art: conversation. You enjoy talking; you enjoy listening. And you do both exceedingly well. You never insist upon being the center of attention in any gathering — but you know full well how to hold your own and even how to carry another's part if need be. To find out what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Monday, March 5
PISCES (Feb. 20-March 21) — So long as others seem willing to allow themselves to be persuaded into your way of thinking, don't hesitate to try converting them.
ARIES (March 22-April 20) — Confer quietly with one who knows what you're up against these days. It would be wise not to allow loved ones to sense your distress.
TAURUS (April 21-May 21) — Look carefully into the spending habits of younger family members. You may be able to solve a mystery simply by recommending a budget.
GEMINI (May 22-June 21) — Though inclined not to take another's word for anything, you might be wise to trust to the experience of a loved one rather than insisting on "seeing" for yourself.
CANCER (June 22-July 23) — Improvements on the employment scene do not necessarily carry over to the home environment. Be prepared to cope with the status quo after work.
LEO (July 24-August 23) — Though another's opinion may seem quite unreasonable to you it may carry a great deal of weight with one who can influence your future. Hold your temper.
VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23) — Be satisfied with a limited reward this morning. Afternoon and evening hours bring you considerable joy from a new source: count your blessings.
LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23) — This is not the day for taking risks — not even those well calculated to bring you considerable gain. You may have judged incorrectly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) — You can with time and patience. You can with time and patience persuade younger family members that you are right. It is a viewpoint that cannot be forced, however.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22) — Take care that discussions do not deteriorate into arguments today. One who holds your future in his hands must be taken into consideration!
CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20) — Once you've presented another with an inanimate gift, you are no longer responsible for it. You must allow him to do as he pleases with it.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) — The tranquility of your emotions may be very much disturbed by events of the morning. Try not to transmit fears to children.

Bald Eagle Study
About this time of year our nation's symbol, the Bald Eagle, seems to be one of the leading subjects of bird articles annually and the special bird that many people look for in spite of winter moods. This is true wherever the Bald Eagle may be found. Careful studies of the migration habits of this magnificent bird are made and reported. The setting for such an interesting project is West Glacier, Montana, where the Bald Eagle migration is relatively new. We are told that it began back in 1926, when salmon were planted in Flathead Lake downstream from the park. In 1935, 15 to 20 Bald Eagles were seen. Dave Shea, who is writing his master's thesis for the University of Montana on the eagles' fall migration to Glacier National Park, makes a weekly canoe census. From early October through November over 300 Bald Eagles had arrived to feast on the freshwater salmon heading upstream to spawn and die. Although the Bald Eagle was named our national bird in 1782, it was unprotected by law until 1940. It has been on the endangered list for some time, and methods have been tried to strengthen its protection. It has been decimated by bounty hunters who have been led to believe that eagles threaten salmon fisheries. They do eat fish, but they prefer the dead or dying fish. In Glacier National Park, the National Park Service is caring for the eagles. It allows park visitors to view them without disturbing them. Snow-covered roads will normally be kept open until early December for the convenience of the eagle viewers. Two observation posts on bridges are set up, and a blind is maintained for photographers; but fall visitors, fishermen included, aren't allowed to walk the banks of salmon-filled Lower McDonald Creek. They must not disturb the Bald Eagles.

A Northern Minnesota Study
Last summer a study was begun in the Chippewa National Forest in northern Minnesota. Ten immature Bald Eagles, dyed blue, orange, white, or combinations of those colors, were released. Officials say that they may be sighted during the fall or winter along the Mississippi River. These young eagles were color-coded as part of a study of eagle movements by the University of Minnesota and federal wildlife biologists. They are trying to find out how far and where these young birds fly. Professor L. D. Frenzel, the director of this phase of study, has stated that very little is actually known about eagle migration in this part of the continent. This dyed-eagle study is now in its second year, and Dr. Frenzel added that several of the first year's eagles were reported from distances of 250 miles from their nesting sites. It would be possible for us to sight such a colored eagle somewhere in our area; if we should be that lucky, we should notify a game warden or someone in authority. Let us remember that immature Bald Eagles do not have the white tail and head; they are a rather uniform grayish brown until third year, when they begin to show any of the white feathering. Their head and tail may not be entirely white until the sixth year.

While we were eating our lunch in defiance of the icy wind, we, at last, saw two majestic eagles, their white heads and tails lending dignity to their imposing forms. Cheating just a bit, we extended our territory to Crane Lake and its area, and found three more adult eagles. So ended our share in the 1973 Bald Eagle Survey. Although we were thrilled at the sight of the aristocratic mature eagles, we were disappointed not to find any immatures, a promise of increase in population. However, we have not received a report of the entire census, which may give us a different picture. Wouldn't it be a sad reflection on our society if the time should come when we can no longer see Bald Eagles in North America?

NORTON AWAITS BIG CHANCE

Less than four weeks from today Ken Norton will be getting the chance of a lifetime, the opportunity many professional athletes never get . . . the chance to reach the pinnacle of his sport.

Norton won't be fighting for the world heavyweight boxing championship, but he will be involved in the next best thing, meeting still the biggest name in professional boxing.

On March 31 Norton, who has the chance to become the best known (if he isn't already) Jacksonville native in professional athletics, will step into the ring with Muhammad Ali, or Cassius Clay if you will, and the eyes of sports followers around the world will be on him. Norton knows he will enter the ring as an underdog and will receive only a fraction of the lofty sum guaranteed the former world champion and once-beaten Ali.

While well-known on the West Coast and in boxing circles, Norton will be viewed for the first time by most of the world's sports fans and most of those knew him while growing up in Jacksonville and have followed his professional career since in the news media.

UNDERDOG OR NOT, Norton is understandably excited about the upcoming event and plans to spend the final four weeks leading up to the 12-round in San Diego working and preparing for the biggest event of his young life.

Contacted by phone at his Los Angeles home Thursday, Norton explained his feelings.

"It (the fight) is a wonderful opportunity for me," started Norton. "I was very excited and pleased to get the fight, the chance I have been waiting for. The money is secondary, as long as I got the fight. The important thing is that I got the opportunity. If I can take advantage of the opportunity, I can be set for the rest of my life. If I can win this one, I can pretty much call my own shots the rest of the way."

Norton, who was informed earlier in the day Thursday that he was now rated sixth in the world by Boxing Illustrated and Ring Magazine, was taking an extra day of rest before continuing his preparations for Ali, like Norton, only once defeated as a professional.

The preparation runs something like this: up at 5:30 a.m. to run four miles (it will be six miles the last three weeks before the fight); sleep from 7-9, eat breakfast at 9:00, take it easy until 1:30; workout and spar from 1:30 to 3:00 and eat again at 7:00.

SPECIAL PREPARATION over Norton's normal procedure for a bout has included the hiring of three sparring partners. "I will do a lot more sparring in preparation for the fight," explained Norton. "I have hired Eddie Jones, a high-ranking heavyweight, Pete Williams, Joe Frazier's sparring partner and one other man. Pete is 6-3½ and has good fast hands."

"The thing we have tried to do is get sparring partners who are similar in build and style to Ali. We are mostly concerned with getting people who have fast hands, like Ali. Joe (Frazier) has also offered to help by sparring with me, but I doubt that I will ask him to because he isn't as tall as Ali."

Norton doesn't know exactly how he will approach the fight as yet. "We haven't worked out a fight plan yet, but we will be very quickly. But the way I see it, Ali works everything off the job. If I can nullify that and could cut off the ring it has to help. By cutting off the ring I mean trying to shorten the ring. Ali is a very good boxer, but he needs the full ring to box the way he wants to. If I can keep him from using all the ring, by cutting him off, I can get him to fight the way I want him to, to fight it out."

NORTON AND ALI went three rounds in California three years ago in what Norton termed just a workout. "We just happened to be at the gym at the same time and decided to work out three rounds," recalls Norton. "It started out very slow, but got very heated to say the least. We both got in some good shots and it was a very good session."

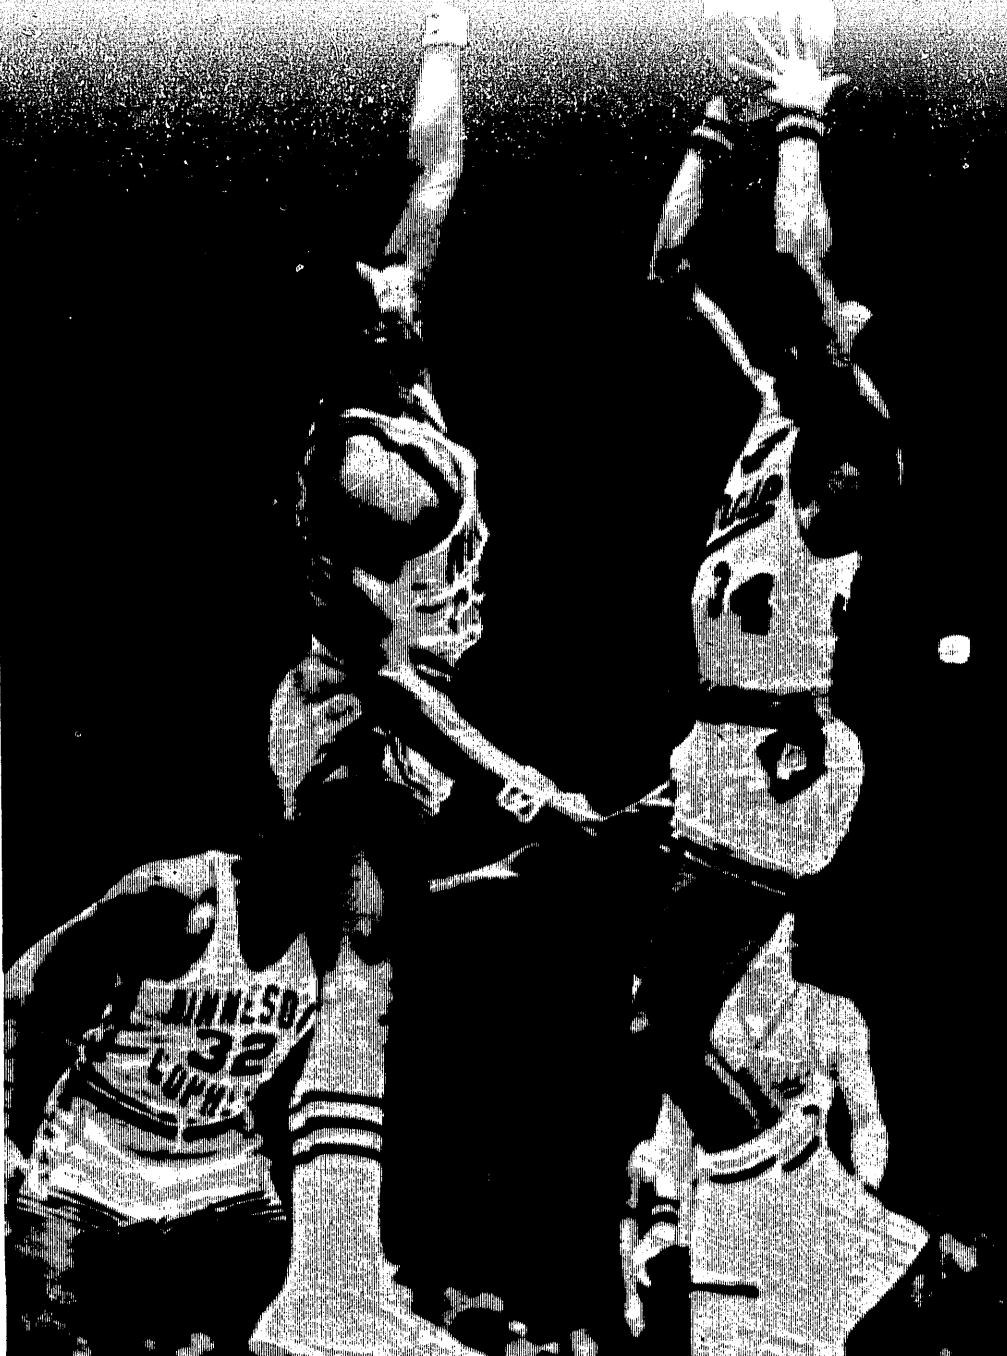

As for his personal feelings toward Ali, Norton, the former All-Service champion as an amateur, says, "I really don't know Ali that well, so I don't have much feelings about him either way. Joe Frazier and I are good friends, but I have just never been around Ali that much."

Speaking of Frazier, Norton commented, "I was very surprised in his loss to George Foreman, but so was the entire world. It was a case of taking someone for granted. Joe felt he could run over Foreman and the results showed it. Joe got caught with a good shot early and never recovered."

Recalling the formal signing ceremony for his bout with Ali, Norton recalled, "It was just a normal ceremony for Ali. He uses that procedure with everyone, trying to psych them out. But I think I am as strong mentally as Ali is, and it didn't bother me in the least. It won't bother me in the future either."

The bout will be shown on national television and it is Norton's understanding that it will be shown on ABC's Wide World of Sports, starting at 4 p.m. Jacksonville time. Norton added that the bout is receiving considerable publicity on the West Coast, where Norton is one of the most popular fighters.

HERE 'N' THERE: A most interesting and thought-provoking poll is currently being taken of the country's sport journalists. Pepsi-Cola, in honor of that company's 75th anniversary, is polling the sports media to determine "the most important sports news events of the past 75 years. Items mentioned as examples are Ali-Frazier, Bobby Thompson's home run, Jesse Owens in the Olympics, the first Super Bowl and the first four-minute mile. We tried to draw up a list and found it quite difficult. We would be interested in your thoughts before turning in our ballot. . . . IF ANY READERS have a good memory of local boxing figures in the 1920's and 1930's, a state resident is working on a "History of Boxing in Illinois" and has asked for help from this area. Anyone with articles or memories of local and area boxers in that era should write Chuck Burroughs, 2702 A Springdale, Peoria. . . . RON FAIRFIELD of Jacksonville High School is one of the leading candidates for the Associated Press' 15-player All-State team to be announced March 15. Fairfield's name is high on the list of nominees released this week by the AP. . . . THE NORTHERN Michigan University junior varsity, coached by former Bluffs athlete Lee Frederick, recently finished up a 16-2 record. . . . THE ST. Top-Ranked Ottawa Marquette and second-ranked Lawrenceville, the defending state champion, led the way to regional championships Friday night in the Illinois Class A high school basketball playoffs.

Marquette dominated the boards and swept past Serena 69-48 in the Shabbona Regional as Gary Woods scored 20 points and Steve Miller added 18.

Lawrenceville pounded host Robinson 91-78 to win the Robinson Regional as the Indians hit a fantastic 64 per cent from the field. Tom Kirkwood led the way for Lawrenceville with 27 points while Chuck McGaughey and Rick Leighty had 22 each.

Third-ranked Elgin St. Edward breezed past Huntley 97-65 to win the Woodstock Regional with Denny Butzow pumping in 26 points but Effingham St. Anthony, ranked No. 4, ran into trouble before edging to a 53-52 victory over Teutopolis in the Flora Regional.

Mike Kabbes sank a free throw after time had run out to give St. Anthony its 25th victory in 28 starts. Teutopolis trailed 52-50 with 10 seconds to play only to have Terry Probst tie it up with a basket. Probst, however, fouled Kabbes who made the first of two free throws to clinch the verdict.

Lanark, the No. 6 team in the state, remained undefeated and posted its 24th straight victory with an 89-57 triumph over Freeport, Aquin. Lanark, led by Doug Jenkins with 21 points, scored the first 12 points of the game.

Bloomington Catholic roared past Eureka 61-47 to strengthen its No. 8 position. Mike Bradley led the way with 27 points.

Amboy, No. 14, boosted its record to 22-3 with a 57-32 decision over Sterling Newman. Jim Mason scored four points in the final seconds to clinch the decision.

Venice downed No. 12 Lovejoy 54-46. It was the 26th victory in 27 starts for Venice which is ranked No. 5 in the state. Ron Henry led Venice with 23 points.

Wenona, the No. 11 team, had to come from behind to eliminate Minonk-Dana-Rutland 76-62. Wenona, 24-2, trailed 32-29 at the half. Randy Barke with 26 points and Steve Flahaven with 19 led the victory.

West Pike and Prophetstown were among upset victims in the regional championships.

West Pike dropped a 59-52 decision to Mendon Unity at Brown County as Greg Frazier scored 28 points including 13 in the final quarter.

Port Byron ousted No. 9 Prophetstown 52-50 as Rick Sterns scored two free throws with six seconds to play. The loss was the first this season for Prophetstown which went into the game with 22 victories. Port Byron advances to the sectionals with an 18-6 mark.

At Vienna, Carrier Mills continued its way on upset road with a 66-64 victory over Brookport. Carrier Mills, which had eliminated favored Vienna earlier in the week, is now 17-9.

Elsewhere around the state in Class A competition, Carmi flattened Cisne 83-48 in the Carmi Regional and Chicago Christian downed Lemont 50-37 at Palos Heights.

Doug Evans scored 25 points for Carmi and John Cambell added 18 as Carmi rolled to an overwhelming 45-14 halftime lead.

Christian boosted its record to 19-8 and was led by Dave Klass who scored 16 points.

Southeastern Augusta, a powerhouse from the start, boosted its record to 25-2 with a 74-68 victory over Carthage in the LaHarpe Regional. Augusta now advances to the Quincy Sectional.

DuQuoin, with only a 12-14 record, defeated Zeigler-Royalton 60-46 to advance to the Norris City Sectional. Robert Baxter led DuQuoin with 17 points.

fence will be installed ten feet closer to home plate from left-center to right-center. The fence will be eight feet high, two and a half feet lower than the permanent barrier. The distances down each foul line will still be 330 feet, but 376 in each of the power alleys, left-center and right-center, and 404 feet straight away. The Cardinals have been out-homered six of the last seven seasons at home, so we fail to see how this can help the often power-anemic Redbird attack. The fence will be shorter for the opposition as well, and it would seem that the Cardinals would be better off with the longer fences and going with their strengths of pitching and defense.

Minnesota Nears Title, Wins 79-66

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind.—Third-ranked Minnesota, the Big Ten's basketball leader, scored 10 straight points in the final four minutes Saturday, beating Purdue 79-66 behind Jim Brewer's 19 points.

The victory raised the defending Big Ten champion Gophers to a 10-2 conference mark, a half-game ahead of 12th-ranked Indiana, 80-64 winner over Iowa.

The loss eliminated Purdue, now 8-5, from the title race.

Minnesota shot 65 per cent from the field in the first half, taking a 43-36 lead.

The Boilermakers pulled within two, 50-48, with 15 minutes to go in the second half, and trailed by five, 69-64, with about 4 minutes left.

The Gophers then scored 10 in a row, taking their widest lead at 79-64, before Purdue's Dennis Gamauf hit the final basket with 20 seconds to go.

Minnesota can clinch at least a tie with Indiana for the Big Ten title with a victory over Iowa Monday. The Gophers end the season next Saturday at Northwestern, while the Hoosiers finish up at home against Purdue on Saturday.

Purdue took 15 more shots than Minnesota but scored five fewer field goals.

Gopher Coach Bill Musselman said, "Our shooting is the best it has been because we board well."

"If we keep shooting well, to go with the two things we do best — rebounding and defense — we'll be tough," he added.

"Defense is a state of mind. This time of the year you have to shoot well. We tried to take out their big men and then we were hoping our forwards could rebound our opponents' forwards," Musselman said.

Purdue Coach Fred Schaus admitted, "Minnesota was very good today. They're one of the best I've seen in a long time. If they win our league they have an excellent chance to do well in the (NCAA) tournament."

He said the Gophers "board better than UCLA."

"I thought we were in good shape at the half," Schaus said, "even though they shot 65 per cent."

Indiana Breezes To 80-64 Romp

Iowa city, Iowa (AP) — Indiana used a stall and a 17-point second half performance by sophomore John Laskowski to keep its Big Ten basketball title hopes alive with an 80-64 victory over Iowa Saturday.

Badgers Coast To 94-79 Count Over Michigan

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Wisconsin surged to a 20-point lead midway through the second half Saturday, and coasted to a 94-79 college basketball victory over Michigan in the Badgers' final home Big 10 game of the season.

Capt. Leo Howard, sixth on Wisconsin's all-time scoring list, paced the Badgers to their 11th season victory in 12 starts with 23 points in his last Madison appearance. Kerry Hughes added 22.

The victory upped UW's Big Ten record to 5-8, and Michigan fell to 6-7 in the conference and 13-10 overall.

Wisconsin three times grabbed seven-point leads in the first half, but led just 42-38 at intermission.

Michigan scored the first basket of the second half, but Wisconsin replied with six straight points, and steadily pulled out to a 77-57 margin with eight minutes to play.

Michigan's Henry Wilmore, with a 21.8 point average, took game honors with 27.

Illini Repeat Fencing Crown

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Illinois' Nate Haywood successfully defended his epee championship Saturday to lead the Illini to their 24th team fencing title in the 45th Annual Big Ten Fencing Championships.

Illinois scored 37 points in capturing its second straight crown and its ninth since 1960. Ohio State finished second with 25 points, followed by Wisconsin with 24, Michigan State 17, Indiana 6 and Minnesota 1.

Harry Chiu of Wisconsin captured the foil title with a 5-0 victory over Dave Littell of Illinois.

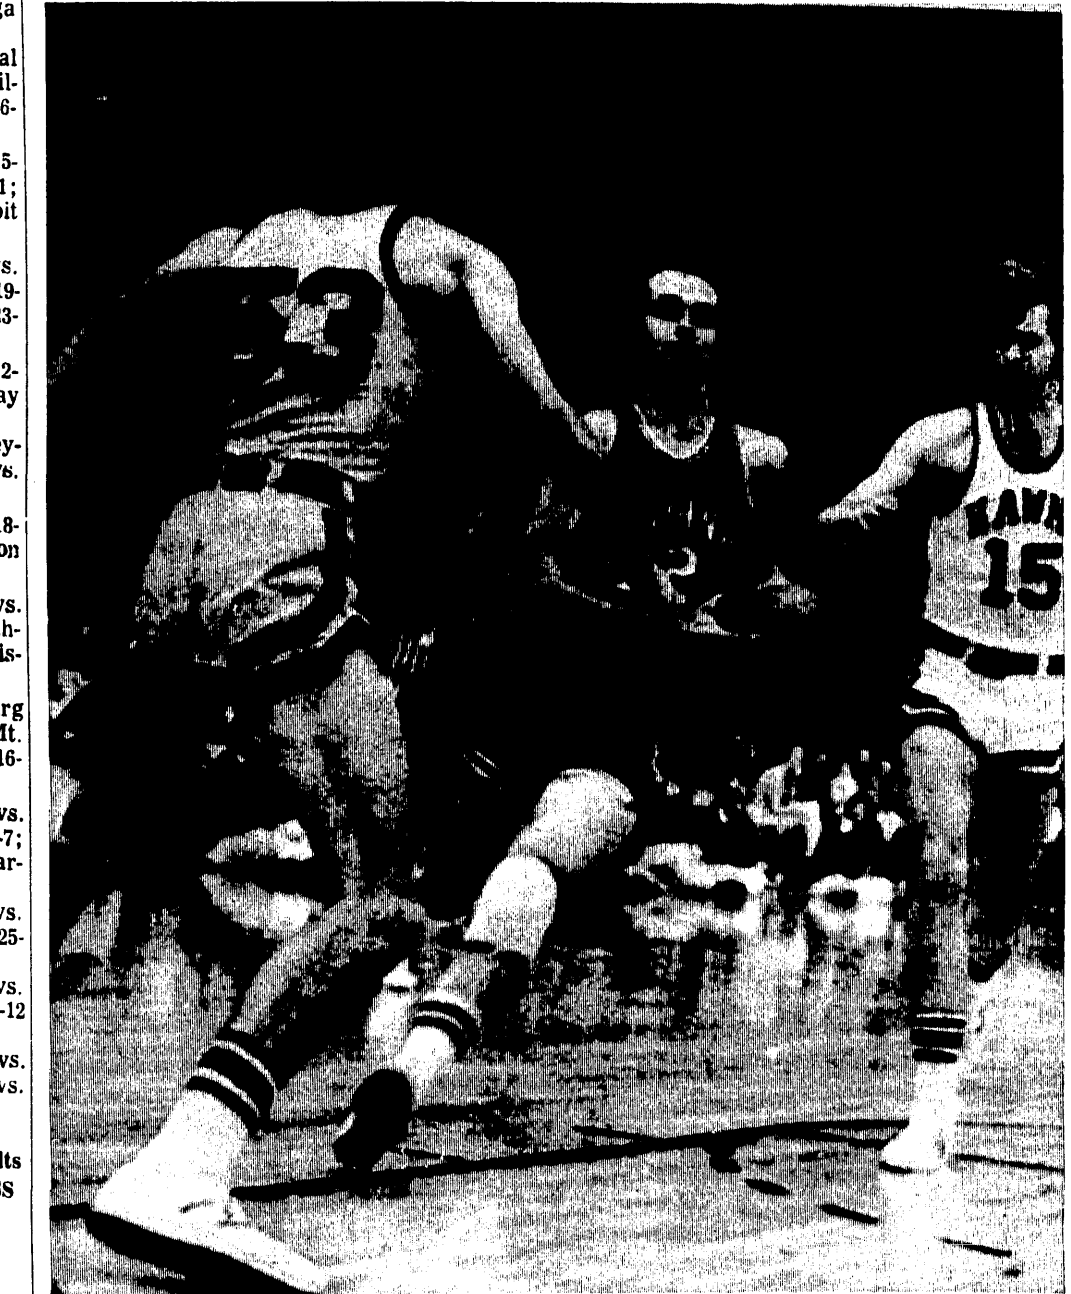

The Illini's Alan Acker took the sabre championship, defeating Fred Royce of Michigan State, 5-0.

Karl was fouled under the basket in the process. Karl then sank both ends of a one-and-one free throw to give the Tar Heels a 72-68 edge with one second left.

Duke got an uncontested basket just before the buzzer to cut the final margin to two points.

The victory gave seventh-ranked North Carolina a 22-6 regular season mark. The Tar Heels finished 8-4 in the ACC. Duke slumped to 12-14 and 4-8 in the league.

Duke's Gary Melchionni was the game's top scorer with 22 points. Bob Fleischer had 15 and Kramer had 12 for the losers. Elston and John O'Donnell led North Carolina with 16 points each and Bobby Jones added 14.

IOWA CITY—Iowa's John Ritter (42) drives toward the basket during the first half of the Big Ten contest in Iowa City against the Hawkeyes Saturday. Iowa's Jim Collins (53) and Neil Fegebank (15) attempt to stop the play. (UPI Telephoto)

Grand Prix Prize

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Scotland's Jackie Stewart overcame bad luck, a bad position and a damaged aerofoil Saturday to win the South African Grand Prix in a borrowed car.

Stewart started in 16th place—the seventh row of the grid in the Tyrrell Ford of teammate Francois Cevert.

But he took the lead in the eighth lap and never once looked back, gradually increasing his lead to win by 24 seconds ahead of Peter Revson of New York and Redondo Beach, Calif., in a McLaren M19.

He covered the 201½ miles in 1 hour 43 minutes 11.07 seconds, averaging 117.5 miles an hour. The victory was worth nine points in the Formula One driver championship standings and gave him 18 after three races.

Brazil's Emerson Fittipaldi, the defending champion and leader this year following victories in Argentina and Brazil, received four points for his third-place finish to raise his total to 22. Arturo Merzario of Italy was fourth. Stewart's chances appeared doubtful Friday when he spun off the Kyalami Circuit during a practice session, badly damaging his car. The lap time he had set in it would give him a position on the front row of the grid. Instead he took Cevert's car and the 16th starting position.

Deny Hulme, last year's winner and the favorite for this race with pole position and an all new McLaren M23, blew a tire in the 10th lap while in second place. He was unable to close the one lap it cost him in pit stop time and wound up fifth, just ahead of George Follmer of Arcadia, Calif.

A flaming second-lap accident eliminated four cars. Clay Regazzoni of Switzerland and Briton Mike Hailwood both suffered minor burns. Belgian Jacky Ickx and South African Dave Charlton both escaped unscathed.

Hailwood helped two marshals drag Regazzoni from his burning vehicle. After the race, he was given an award for bravery.

Robinson Hits 40 In 86-72 Triumph

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Mike Robinson, fighting for a second straight Big Ten scoring championship, scored 40 points Saturday to lead Michigan State to an 86-72 basketball victory over Northwestern.

Robinson, hitting on 17 of 30 field goal attempts and netting six of seven free throws, scored 15 points in the first half as State took a 39-30 lead and then added 25 in the second half to prevent Northwestern from mustering any kind of rally.

It marked a career high for Robinson who once scored 38 points as a sophomore and also had 38 against Iowa earlier this season.

Northwestern managed to tie the game at 21-21 but Michigan State went on a 12-2 spurt to grab a 33-23 advantage.

Michigan State steadily increased its lead in the second half and led by as much as 59-42 when Robinson converted a three-point play. Mark Sibley was high for Northwestern with 17 points.

MSU is now 5-8 in the Big Ten and 11-12 over-all. Northwestern's totals are 1-11 and 4-18.

Hoosier Depth Brings Big Ten Track Title

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Indiana's depth carried the Hoosiers to the Big Ten indoor track championship Saturday, beating runner-up Michigan 54½-44½.

Indiana won just two events, compared with five for the Wolverines, but the Hoosiers had six second-place finishes and three thirds to Michigan's three second places and one third.

Defending champion Michigan State had two firsts, two seconds and three thirds and finished in third place with 35 points, two points ahead of Wisconsin.

Illinois was fifth, followed by Minnesota, Purdue, Iowa, Northwestern and Ohio State.

Five Big Ten records were broken and two others tied in the 63rd running of the indoor championships.

Indiana's Pat Mandera set one mark in the two-mile run Friday night with an 8:43.2 clocking that beat the 8:49.0 record of Minnesota's Garry Bjorklund in 1971.

Wisconsin's Glenn Herold broke another record held by Bjorklund in the three-mile run Saturday. Herold was timed in 1:38.55, topping Bjorklund's mark of 1:43.3 set last year.

Mike Durkin of Illinois set a record of 4:01.5 in the mile. That broke the 4:02.2 set by Wisconsin's Ray Arrington in 1969.

Other conference records were set by Bob Casselman of Michigan State, 1:08.8 in the 600, and Rob Maango of Illinois, 1:49.2 in the 800.

Casselman's time eclipsed the 1:09.3 record set by Bill Wehrman, also of Michigan State, in 1970. Maango topped the record of 1:49.8 set by Wisconsin's Mark Winzenried in 1970.

Larry Burton of host Purdue and Marshall Dill of Michigan State tied the 5.9 record in the 60-yard dash set by Burton and Michigan State's Herb Washington in 1972.

Michigan's Kim Rowe tied the record he set Friday night with a 47.2 clocking in the 440 yard dash.

St. Olaf Holds On For Loop Swim Crown

RIPON, Wis. (AP) — St. Olaf, although not winning any of the seven events Saturday, held on and nipped Ripon 294-286 to gain the Midwest Conference swimming crown owned by the Redmen for the last two seasons.

Cornell, whose Randy Hyde established a 1,000 yard freestyle record of 10:51.4 and 40 yard freestyle team set a mark of 3:25.8, was third at 224. Grinnell was fourth at 217 as Bob Winters erased the 100 yard backstroke record with his 56.3 second timing and also won the 200 yard backstroke and 200 yard individual medley.

Knox was fifth with 164½ points. Coe had 108, Lawrence 96, Carleton 69, Monmouth 59½ and Beloit 52.

Nepela Captures Third Straight Skate Crown

BRATISLAVA, Czechoslovakia (AP) — Ondrej Nepela of Czechoslovakia won his third consecutive world men's figure skating crown Saturday and said he was retiring from competition and hopes to skate professionally.

Sergei Chetverukhin of the Soviet Union took the silver medal and Jan Hoffman of East Germany earned the bronze in a 1-2-3 finishing order that duplicated the European championship three weeks ago.

"I am absolutely finished. This is my last competition," said Nepela, a 22-year-old law student from Bratislava. "I would like to skate professionally, but I must get permission."

He won the gold medal with 10 ordinals and 355.66 points.

Chetverukhin had 17 ordinals and 340.55 points while third-place finisher Hoffman gained 35 ordinals, the all-important judge's placement rankings, and 338.43 points.

Canada's Toller Cranston, with 46 ordinals and 336.60 points was fifth, followed by Yur Ovchinnikov of the Soviet Union, 54-334.01. Gordon McKellen of Lake Placid, N.Y., 62-330.84. Ronald Shaver, Canada, 61-330.58. Jacques Mrozek of France, 91-320.01 and Czechoslovakia's Zdenek Paydirek, 95-319.43.

Chetverukhin won a "small" gold medal for winning the combined free skating programs.

His five minute concluding routine earned him the highest marks of the evening, including one perfect mark of six from Russian judge Boris Aukhin.

Nepela finished runner-up in the free skating section, taking a "small" silver medal for the free figures that count 60 percent towards the title. He got one perfect mark from Romanian judge Ica Minculescu.

THE PHILADELPHIA PHILLIES

By G. Dallas Green

Director of Minor Leagues and Scouting

Bob Boone, son of former American League All-Star infielder Ray Boone, heads the list of Phillies rookies for 1973.

Boone, 25 (hometown-San Diego, Calif.), is getting a shot at being the Phillies regular catcher this season after four years of minor league ball. He spent only one full year behind the plate, that being 1972. He was signed as a third baseman by the Phillies and moved to catching during the winter instructional league program after the 1970 season, a move exactly the opposite of his father's career. He missed the start of the 1971 season with Reading because of an injury but when he played, he split his time between third and catching.

"For a boy who hasn't caught that much, Bob advanced quicker than anyone I've ever seen," said his Eugene manager in 1972, Andy Seminick, one of the game's top catchers in the 1950's. "Boone has a strong throwing arm, stamina, is intelligent and the big thing, he hits the ball."

Playing in 138 games last year, Boone hit .308 with 17 home runs, 67 RBI's, striking out only 35 times in 513 at bats. He was recalled by the Phillies in September and batted .275 in 16 games.

Three other Eugene teammates will be in the Phils' major league camp, pitcher Mike Wallace and infielders Mike Schmidt and Craig Robinson.

Wallace, 21 (Vienna, Va.), had his best pro season in four years, 16-7 with a 3.46 ERA. The lefthander worked 203 innings, allowed 202 hits and struck out 128. "His fast ball has good movement and he'll challenge the hitters when he has to," said Seminick.

Schmidt, 23 (Dayton, O.) has been in pro ball for just one and a half seasons. Coming off the Ohio University campus in 1971, Schmidt hit .211 at Reading. He struggled starting the season at Eugene in 1972 and then finished strong, hitting .291 with 26 homers, second high in the league, and produced 91 RBI's.

He began his pro career as a shortstop and split the 1972 season between second and third base. "I think he's better suited for third," Seminick said. "He made some outstanding plays for us there and hit some big home runs down the stretch." The Phils are giving Schmidt a chance to fill the shoes of third baseman Don Money, dealt to Milwaukee.

Robinson, 24 (Ivyland, Pa.) has been in pro ball for just three seasons and has been the outstanding defensive shortstop in the Pacific Coast League each of the last two seasons. Offensively, he hit .226 at Eugene, had seven homers and 48 RBI's. With the Phils in September, Robinson batted .200 in five games before being sidelined with a pulled hamstring.

Another triple-A pitcher on the Phils' 40-man winter roster is a product of the Detroit Tigers organization, lefthander Don Leshnock, who was sold to the National League club at the end of the Toledo season. The 26-year-old Leshnock (Toledo, O.), was 3-6, 3.33 in 32 games for the Mud Hens, appearing in relief 26 times. He'll get a chance to stick with the Phils as a spot starter and long relief man.

Jim Bunning, the former star pitcher, made his managerial debut with the Phils' Reading farm club in the Eastern League. Four of his products are on the Phils' roster.

Two are 20-year-old pitchers, righthander Dave Downs (Bountiful, U.) and southpaw Mike Martin (Columbia, S.C.). Downs had a combined 10-11 record for his first two pro seasons and then developed into a big winner at Reading, (15-7, 2.41 ERA) leading the league with 15 complete games. He joined the Phils late in the season and was 1-1 in four starts, including a shutout over the Atlanta Braves in his debut.

Bunning called Downs his best pitcher for the entire season. "He made more progress than anyone else on my team and probably more than anyone in the league. He went from a thrower the first six weeks to a pitcher with an idea of what he wanted to do with the ball the last three months."

Martin, the Phils' No. 1 pick in the 1970 draft, also blossomed under Bunning. He was 11-8 with a 3.54 E.A.R. "He was the biggest and most pleasant surprise of the season for me," recalled Bunning. "His fast ball increased in velocity and his knowledge of how to pitch all added up to a plus for him."

Bunning's other two products are catcher Jim Essian, 21 (Detroit, Mich.) and outfielder Nellie Garcia, 22, (Carpito, Estado Monagas, Venezuela). Essian, a three-year pro, batted .253 with four homers and 33 RBI's while Garcia batted .278, had five homers, 35 RBI's and 33 stolen bases.

The other rookie on the Phils' roster is 21-year-old righthanded pitcher, Mike Bruhart, drafted by the Phils from the Mets' Tidewater farm club during the winter draft. The 6-foot-6, 216 pounder was 3-3 at Visalia and 2-1 at Pompano Beach last year and will have to stick with the Phils for the entire season or be offered back to the Mets for half of the $25,000 draft price.

Our scouting reports indicate Mike has an outstanding fast ball. Control is a problem now but we have confidence in his raw ability. It's just a matter of getting the ball over the plate. A pitcher, you know, can come around a little faster than other players.

SUSAN'S GIRL PROVES HERSELF

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Susan's Girl proved the fans can be wrong Saturday when she won the $100,000 Santa Margarita Invitational Handicap at Santa Anita by three lengths going away.

The daughter of Quadrangle, a 4-year-old who was one of the tops of her sex a year ago, was the favorite on the morning line, but the crowd of 46,200 backed her into second place in wagering, making Convenience the favorite.

But in the stretch run, it was Susan's Girl, ridden by Laffit Pincay Jr. and carrying high weight of 127, who showed her heels to Convenience and the other six in this race for older fillies and mares.

The time for the 1½ miles was 1:47 4-5.

Sets New Goal

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Tracy Smith. The name comes flashing back from the past and it recalls America's strongest distance runner, a three-mile specialist who runs well indoors and who had the ability to beat anyone on a given day.

The reputation in 1967-68-69 was legitimate. Smith rarely lost, set two world marks and toured the world, beating the best. But Tracy admits a mental block kept him from a big breakthrough.

The block appears to have been removed. Today the blond Smith lives in a modest Long Beach apartment. He is back in school, a world record holder again and once more on the path of the big breakthrough. This time, however, he says he's got God on his side.

"I'm running for Athletics in Action," says Tracy, just 27 and still an awesome physical specimen for a distance runner. "They're affiliated with the Campus Crusade for Christ and I think this is what I've needed all these years."

Smith graduated from high school in nearby Arcadia and went to Oregon State "to get away from home." He set world indoor three-mile marks of 13:16.2 in 1967 and 13:75.2 in 1968. But he never graduated from college and when injured late in the 1969 season started thinking about retirement.

A year ago he decided he wanted to help youth. His left Achilles tendon was still sore so he thought running again was out of the question. He joined the Los Angeles Police Department and, forced to run up hills in the Police Academy, found he could still jog a bit.

His return to action last year fell short in the Olympic Trials and Tracy was still wandering. "I knew I could beat just about anybody on my strength," said the muscular 5-foot-11, 153-pounder who has broad shoulders. "I loved to run an even pace and then, right in the middle of the race, really blast two laps. I had that power but I wasn't improving. "But with Athletics in Action I seem to have found something really meaningful."

Smith captured the National AAU three-mile title two weeks ago in New York, running 13:07.2 for a world mark. He credits religion for the turnaround.

"That was the most exciting and most satisfying win in my career," he said. "I was so tired of getting beat down."

"When I heard that stadium announcer say I could break the record if I ran the last quarter in 64 seconds, well I really wanted that record but I was also starting to hurt. I always used to think that God could help, but in that race I started thinking about Jesus on the cross and how much that must have hurt. And then I just ran harder—I really wanted to hurt."

After years of roaming, Tracy says he's finally settled down.

Tracy is a senior in physical education at Long Beach State and is a nonpaid assistant coach for Dr. Jack Rose, the head coach.

"Tracy is just the most super human being I've ever met," said Rose. "He's been with us just two months and already every distance runner on the team has run a lifetime best. I don't know how he does it but he's incredible."

When Smith first started making headlines, fellows like Steve Prefontaine, Frank Shorter and George Young weren't around to challenge him. Prefontaine was still in high school, Shorter was not yet a top runner and Young was specializing in the steeplechase.

Now Smith says he's nearly ready to challenge them.

"I know I can run under 13 minutes for three miles," he says. "The only thing that was lacking before was confidence. I was scared to make the big move with a half mile to go. I've always been scared to run hard. Let's face it, I can't out-kick the big kickers."

Illinois Falls To OSU 65-64

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State held Nick Weather- spoon, the Big Ten's leading scorer, to nine points Saturday night, and Allan Hornyak pumped in 20 points to lead the Buckeyes to a 65-64 victory over Illinois.

The Buckeyes, now 7-6 in the conference and 13-10 over-all, nearly blew a 21-point first half lead.

Hornyak's two free throws with 13 seconds to go gave Ohio State a 65-62 lead and handed the Illini their fifth loss in 12 Big Ten games. Illinois is 13-9 over-all.

Weather- spoon, the Illini's 6-foot-6 senior forward, could make only four of 22 shots and sank only one in the second half. Jeff Dawson led Illinois with 20 points and Nick Conner had 16 more.

Hornyak, celebrating his 22nd birthday, moved into fourth place on the all-time Ohio State scoring list. The 6-1 senior now has 1,548 points in his career. He passed Gary Bradds who had 1,530.

Luke Witte, another senior making his final St. John Arena appearance, and junior Dan Gerhard, each accounted for 15 points for Ohio State, Illinois.

The loss was the first this season for the Porters who were ranked No. 1 in The Associated Press from the very start.

Lockport rolled to an 18-4 lead in the early going but Moline finally took the lead 23-22 and went ahead to stay 25-24 in the second period. It was Moline 33-26 at the half.

Moline is now 16-6 and Lockport, led by Ellis Files' 22 points, is 23-1 going into the Class AA regionals next week.

INDIANA STATE DROPS ISU 76-71

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP) — Carl Macon dropped in 16 points and pulled down 12 rebounds to lead Indiana State over Illinois State, 76-71, in the final basketball game of the season for both teams Saturday.

Macon and teammate Doug Peckinpaugh combined to hold Illinois State All-American Doug Collins to a career-low 11 points. Three Cardinal players shared scoring honors with 14 points each. Ron DeVries pulled down 21 rebounds to go with his 14 tallies.

The Sycamores finish up with a 16-10 record, winning 11 of their final 13 games. Illinois State closed at 13-12.

St. Louis Nets 70-56 Surprise Over Memphis

ST. LOUIS (AP) - St. Louis University completely befuddled Memphis State in the second half Saturday and scored a surprising 70-56 college basketball victory.

The 10th-ranked Tigers, already headed for the NCAA tournament as Missouri Valley Conference champs, were outscored by the fired up Billikens 29-12 in the last 7 1/2 minutes of the game.

Harry Rogers and Jesse Leonard sparked the upset win for St. Louis, which kept its hopes alive for a bid to the National Invitational Tournament.

Rogers took game scoring honors with 25 points while Leonard added 20, 18 of them in the Bills' big second half. Larry Finch led Memphis State with 22 points and Larry Kenon added 14.

Today's final Prep Spotlight features players from Petersburg Porta, Meredosia and East Pike high schools. This runs the total number of pictures used in this annual feature to near 200.

The Spotlight features six players from Porta, which has the area's best record and is headed for the Carlville Sectional Tuesday. Bill Gum and Kevin Washington are both Little All-State candidates for the Blue-boys. Gum, a 6-0 senior guard, is averaging just over 20 points per game, with 24 of 25 games in double figures and a high of 37 points. Washington, a 6-4 senior center, is just below 20 per game with only three games out of twin figures and a top of 33 points, twice.

Andy Winkelman, a 6-0 senior, has three games in double figures with a high of 22 points in win over Athens. Gary Park, a 6-3 junior, hit double figures in five outings, topped by 21 in win over Glenwood. Dan Sullivan, a 5-9 senior guard, has a high-game of ten points. Greg Squires is a 6-1 senior with seven games in double digits, his best a 19-point effort against Waverly.

Three players from Meredosia are featured. Steve Boyd was one of the area's top sophomores this past season, averaging 14.4 points with 15 games in double figures. The 5-10 Boyd had a one-game best of 25 points in loss to Bluffs. Dennis Klopfer, a 5-11 senior, averaged 12.0 on the season with 19 double figure games and a best of 26 in loss to Astoria. Jon Alhorn, a 6-0 soph, had three games in double figures, including 14 in the final game of season.

Paul Ottwell, a 5-6 sophomore, had five double figure games for East Pike, including 15 in loss to Payson.

Allin Stretches Lead In Citrus

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) - The freckle-faced Allin, Little Buddy Allin continued his record setting with a five-under-par 67 Saturday and stretched his lead to four strokes through three rounds of the $150,000 Florida Citrus Open Golf Tournament.

The skinny redhead, who set a season-low of 13-under-par for two rounds, established another with a 54-hole total of 198, a whopping 18 under on the 6,928-yard Rio Pinar Country Club course.

The 18-under figure is the best in the last 24 months on the pro tour.

Lockman Does Not Anticipate Williams Move

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) - Whitey Lockman, Chicago Cubs manager, said Saturday that he "can't foresee" a situation whereby outfielder Billy Williams would be moved to first base full time this season.

There was wintertime talk that the Cubs would move Williams, the majors' leading hitter with .333 last year, to first base trying to prolong the 34-year-old athlete's career.

"I had a talk with Billy and he understands the situation," Lockman said. "We have veteran Joe Pepitone and Jim Hickman available at first. Also Pat Bourque has to be considered."

Bourque, a former Holy Cross football linebacker, played at Wichita in 1972 and batted .279 with 20 homers and 87 runs batted in.

Lockman did not rule out the possibility of Williams playing the opener of a doubleheader in left field and the second game at first base at times.

"That way we would have Billy's bat available in both games," Lockman said. "He has become such a leader on the club that he will do anything to help the team."

Williams is the highest salaried Cub in history with a 1973 contract calling for a reported $150,000.

Court Defeats Casals In Slims

DETROIT (AP) - Australia's Margaret Court defeated Rosemary Casals of San Francisco, 7-6, 6-3, to gain the finals in the $25,000 Virginia Slims Women's Professional Tennis Tournament Saturday.

Mrs. Court, who is top seeded in the tournament, was down 41 in the first set, but bounced back for the 7-6 victory.

The victory earned Mrs. Court a berth in the final match Sunday against the winner of Saturday night's semi-finals contest between fourth seeded Billie Jean King of Hill-ton Head, S.C., and Kerry Melville of Australia.

THE BIG ARM: Leaping Kevin Washington (43) of Petersburg Porta leaps to tap a rebound away from Routh's Pat Rourke, as Porta's Andy Winkelman (1) and Tom Lockman of Routh sideline the action. Washington poured in 22 points as Porta captured Ashland Regional Friday with 60 - 55 count over Rockets.

Winchester Rally Tops Saukees 56-55

McKinney Paces 'Cats In Overtime

By BARNEY FLYNN

PITTSFIELD—Brian McKinney hit 11 straight points with less than three minutes left in the ball game to bring Winchester from almost certain defeat, as the Wildcats went on to knock off Pittsfield 56-55 in overtime, in the championship tilt at the Pittsfield Regional Friday night.

Down 42-38, after three periods, Winchester couldn't get on the board until 3:25 left in the game and trailed by 50-37 when McKinney turned the game around with his cat-quick defense.

The 5-11 junior dropped in a long jumper over the Saukees zone, swiped the ball and dropped in a three-point play after a steal, to make it 50-42. McKinney picked off another errant pass and drove the length of the court to cut it to 50-46.

The stocky guard wasn't finished yet, as he pumped in two straight long jumpers, making it 50-48, before back court mate Clarence Howard, swiped the in-bound pass and dropped it in for a 50-50 tie with a minute left.

Fred Ruzich finally broke the skin with a pair of free throws, followed by a Jerry Evans jumper from the corner making it 52-52. Evans missed two more long shots. Pittsfield missed a free throw, and Steve Smith hit the back of the rim at the gun to send it into overtime.

Brian McKinney hit a charity toss early in the extra period for a 53-52 edge. Brother Gordon McKinney dropped one in from the corner, followed by a Dennis Oliver free throw to pull the Saukees within 55-53, with less than a minute left.

The Wildcats, 19-7, stalled until Ruzich floored Brian McKinney with 30 seconds left in the OT. Ruzich was ejected, and McKinney had to be taken from the court after the foul. McKinney's replacement, Jim Kirkpatrick, missed both free tosses, but redeemed himself seconds later as he picked off a Saukee pass that resulted in a Gordon McKinney free throw with 12 seconds left, for a 56-53 Wildcat lead. Oliver dropped in a long jumper with two seconds left, with the Wildcats holding the ball for the win.

With the hard fought win, Winchester will advance to the Carlinville Sectional to play Carrollton next Wednesday night.

Brian McKinney paced the Wildcats with 20 points in the game followed by Evans with ten. Lonnie Capps took game scoring honors with 26 points as he carried Pittsfield the first three periods, before being held scoreless in the fourth quarter and the OT. The Saukees hit on 14 of 20 shots in the second half, to finish with a hot 53.9 per cent mark, and used their tenacious zone defense to hold the Wildcats to 18 points in the second half until McKinney's great spree.

Winchester used three Pittsfield turnovers in the early going to race to an 8-2 lead. With Capps hitting inside and out, Pittsfield struggled back to trail by only 12-11 at the first break and 26-23 at intermission. Capps, hitting five of seven shots, finished with 13 points in the half, with Rod Little leading Winchester with eight, four coming on late free throws. Evans picked up his third foul early in the second frame and sat out the rest of the period, giving Capps more room inside. Evans opened the second half with a pair of free throws but then Capps caught fire. The 6-2 senior pumped in 13 points in the quarter, hitting on five of six. Pittsfield's zone harassed the Cats into four turnovers, and they failed to penetrate, hitting only four of 12 shots, to drop behind 42-36 entering the eventful fourth quarter.

Unity Outlasts West Pike 59-52

MT. STERLING — Greg Frazier of Unity High sparked a nine point surge in the last minutes as Mendon outlasted previously undefeated West Pike High 59-52 for the championship of the Brown County Class A Regional Friday night.

Unity, now 25-2, advances to the Quincy Catholic Boys Sectional Tournament to meet the winner of the Lewistown Regional.

The contest was close all the way with Unity holding a slim 9-8 lead at the end of the first quarter. The victors led 26-24 at the half, with West Pike returning to knot the score at 37-37 at the third intermission.

Frazier, who was high point man for Unity with 28 points, collected 13 points in the fourth quarter to spark his club. With under two minutes to play, Unity and West Pike were tied at 50-50.

Mendon shot 34 per cent from the field, hitting 23 of 66 attempts, while West Pike shot at a 40 per cent clip, making 20 of 50 shots. Turnovers provided ed to be decisive as West Pike was charged with 23, compared to only nine against Unity. West Pike outrebounded Unity, 38-28.

Following Frazier in the winning column was Greg Campbell with 24, while Bob Gray with 30 and Rodney with 12 paced West Pike, which finished the year with a 25-1 record.

Balyki Advances Via 53-49 Victory

HAVANA — Dave Smith and Jeff Steigleder hit three free throws with less than one minute ago to keep Balyki in front as The Thunderbirds hung on for a 53-49 victory over Rushville in the finals of the Havana Class A Regional Friday night.

Balyki now advances to the Quincy Catholic Boys Sectional Tournament.

Both teams were tied 16-16 at the end of the first quarter, with Balyki moving out to a slim 28-26 lead at the half. The Thunderbirds took a 42-34 lead at the end of the third period, with the Rockets coming back for a 15-11 advantage in the fourth period.

Fourth Quarter Surge Defeats Panthers, 62-60

JERSEYVILLE — O'Fallon came on strong in the fourth quarter to return from an eight point deficit and nip Jerseyville Panthers 62-60 in a Mississippi Valley Conference contest Friday night.

O'Fallon, now 8-17 overall and 3-9 in the conference, outshot the Panthers 21-11 in the fourth frame for the win. The Panthers, 10-13 and 5-9 in the loop, had led 49-41 at the close of the third period.

Four O'Fallon starters shot in double figures with Kent Hinrichs leading the attack with 21 points. The victors shot at a 43 per cent clip, making 26 of 60 tries, while the Panthers made 24 of 53 attempts for 45 per cent.

Don Elliott with 22 and Stan Sidwell with 20 paced Jerseyville, as the Panthers, outrebounded their opponents 37-32 while suffering four more turnovers.

Southeast Streaks Past Jacks, 71-61

Big Third Frame Tops Crimsons

By JERRY SEIBERT

Springfield Southeast broke open a tight game with a big third stanza and coolly held on to the finish to end the Jacksonville High school Crimsons' regular season on a disappointing 71-61 note in the Capital Conference wrapup for both teams at the JHS Bowl Friday night.

The Spartans held an unsteady 32-28 advantage at intermission before romping for a 24-11 margin during the third chapter behind the hot shooting of Bruce Franks and Ron White. The Jacks made a bid in the final go-around but the dominating Southeast squad held on as long-shooting Lish Johnson supplied the fourth-quarter fire power.

The Crimsons slid to as much as a 19-point deficit at the start of the fourth stanza but scrapped back to within nine with 4:48 to go as Ron Fairfield, Cliff White and Bill Turner each added four tallies apiece to the comeback cause.

Johnson, who controlled the tempo of the game for Southeast from his ball-handling position, then reinstated the Spartans to a 13-point advantage with 2:30 to play as he sank a pair of charities and swished a long 25 footer.

The Jacks stayed in the game, however, as Frank Walker returned with a pair of charities and Fairfield tossed one in from under at the 1:50 mark for another nine-point deficit. Johnson came back with four more points during the next minute and a half to completely kill any hopes of a Crimson season-ending win.

The Crimsons were particularly hurt in the game on eight baskets the visitors scored on offensive rebounds as the Spartan's jumping ability kept the Jacks frustrated on the boards all night long.

The Spartans counted first in the contest on a turn-around jumper by big center Tom McBride, but Fairfield at the line and White from the field boosted the Jacks to an 11-8 lead midway through the period. But Southeast racked up the next 12 points as the hosts went cold for a 20-11 count and led 22-15 at the first pause.

Bill Versen went to work for the Crimsons in the second quarter and brought them to within six, 28-22, on three fielders and a free throw before Fairfield helped out with two jumpers to cut deeper into the visitors' lead and set a 28-26 tally with 2:21 to go before the half.

Franks gave a preview of things he had in store as he made Southeast's last two first-half baskets before Cliff White hit from the lane for the 32-28 count at intermission.

Franks and Fairfield dueled with a pair of baskets each as the third period opened, but White came through for the visitors and Franks hit again to open up an eight-point SE lead. Fairfield had five more points in the next few minutes and Versen added a layin basket, but Franks and White led a surge that gave the Spartans the last ten points of the third chapter and a 56-39 bulge going into the final eight minutes.

Southeast had ball-handling troubles in the opening half and committed 14 turnovers to enable Jacksonville, which shot a meager 28.2 per cent during that time, to stay close. But with only six mistakes made in the final 16 minutes the Spartans were able to pull away although the Jacks warmed up to shoot almost 50 per cent then.

Johnson, hitting several long bombs off a 1-4 offense SE employed at times, finished as the winners' high scorer with 24 tallies. Franks, who led the third-quarter surge with ten markers, ended with 18 count-ers for the visitors, who now stand 9-13 on the season.

Once again all-state candidate Fairfield paced the local attack as he dumped in 27 points, 17 of which went in during the second half when the Crimsons were playing catchup. Cliff White followed with 12 tallies while Bill Versen added 11 for the losers.

The preliminary game turned out quite a success for the sophomore Crimsons, however, as they handed the Spartan sophs their first defeat of the season.

The young Jacks employed a stingy defense and some clutch free-throw shooting down the stretch to topple Southeast by the score of 71-61.

Hawks Capture Regional, 76-66

CARROLLTON — Taking a four point lead at the quarter and never falling behind, the Carrollton Hawks notched a 76-66 victory over North Greene for the championship of the Carrollton Class A Regional Friday night.

Carrollton, now with an 18-7 season mark, advances to the Carlinville Sectional to face Winchester in the opening round Wednesday night. Porta meets Girard on Tuesday night in the tournament.

The Hawks, who have won nine in a row and 17 of their last 21 games, were up 16-11 at the end of the first quarter and outshot the Spartans 25-16 in the second frame to roar ahead for good. North Greene took a 15-13 edge in the third period for the only scoring advantage in a quarter over the Hawks.

Four Hawks shot in double stats with Dave Hobson leading the way with 30, followed by Greg Pohlman and Kevin Roundcount with 14 each and Steve Graner with 12. The Hawks shot 57 per cent from the field, making 31 of 54 tries, while the Spartans shot at a 41 per cent clip, netting 26 of 63 attempts.

Mike Bettis with ten points was the only Spartan in the nine players list to hit in double figures. The Hawks outrebounded the Spartans 53-24.

ANNOUNCE PROMOTION
ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals announced the promotion of George Boone, 34, to director of player personnel for the National Football League club succeeding Abe Stuber, who is resigning.

The announcement was made Thursday by Joe Sullivan, who was hired last week as director of operations. Stuber, 69, announced in January he would retire following the NFL college draft but would remain on as a consultant.

Late Rocket Surge Falls To Bluejays

By BUFORD GREEN
Sports Editor

ASHLAND—Porta's two-man gang of Bill Gum and Kevin Washington put on another dazzling display, including playing a big role in putting down a late Routt threat as the Bluejays turned back the Rockets 60-55 Friday night to claim the championship of the Ashland Regional Tournament before a standing room only crowd.

Gum and Washington carried Porta to a 19-point lead early in the fourth quarter before Routt streaked unbelievably back into serious contention in the final two minutes.

The victory gave Porta its third straight Regional championship to go with its fourth consecutive MSM Conference title. The Bluejays now advance to the Carlinville Sectional to take on Girard, a 59-53 victor over Auburn for the Waverly Regional crown Friday, next Tuesday. Porta, now riding a 14-game winning streak and a 19-6 standing on the season, will be seeking revenge for a 71-66 overtime loss to Girard early in the season.

Porta starter Gary Park suffered a knee injury in the first minute of the game, returned briefly in the second quarter and reinjured the knee to miss the remainder of the contest.

Gum and Washington, both averaging near 20 points per game and both rating as legitimate Little All-State candidates, combined for 50 of Porta's 60 points in the battle, including all the Bluejays points in the second half. The duo, the area's highest scoring pair, led a first half streak that put Porta on top by 15 points and were instrumental in the third frame when the eventual winners mounted the gap to 19 points.

Seemingly out of contention after trailing by 19 to open the fourth and by 19 again with less than six minutes left in the game, Routt put on an inspired rally that saw the Rockets rip off 12 straight unanswered points and push the top-rated Bluejays down to the wire.

Porta finished shooting 54% to Routt's 44% and held a slight board edge. Loneragan turned in a sparkling effort in his first game as a Rocket, firing in 21 points and doing a standout job on the boards. Lockman added 12 as Routt bowed out with a 14-12 mark.

Gum fired in 28 points for the night, hitting 14 of 21 attempts from the field, and had several big steals in the first half. Washington, a 6-4 jumping jack, added 22 points, 13 rebounds and three blocked shots. Washington provided a driving layup through the Routt press with just over a minute left to stop the Rocket surge and virtually put the game on ice.

Porta, a team that likes to run, had some trouble getting its fast game untracked in the opening quarter but raced to a 12-8 lead thanks to eight Rocket turnovers in the period. Washington hit his first five shots from the court, all on fallaway jumpers, including the first of the second quarter that moved the margin to 14-8.

After Tom Lockman and Mike Loneragan hit consecutive buckets, Porta started on a 71% second quarter shooting performance, hitting ten of 14 in the chapter. Gum poured in ten points in the quarter and Washington added six as Porta put together an eight-point streak for a 22-12 lead. The Bluejays hit six more in a row after a Lockman bucket and Gum's final bucket of the half boosted the difference to 15 at 32-17 before fore Pat Rourke scored late for a 32-19 halftime spread. Porta blitzed the nets at 64% rate to Routt's 42% rate.

Gum continued a nine-of-ten streak in the third quarter but Loneragan and John Vahle managed to pull Routt back to within eight points at 35-27. Again Washington and Gum went to work and the Bluejays outscored Routt 11-2 in the remaining four minutes of the frame to lead 48-31 with eight minutes to play.

The action got hotter after Porta leaped to leads of 50-31 and 54-35, the last time with just under six minutes left. Rourke and Pat Bonjean hit two jumpers before Washington broke the string. Washington then drew his fourth foul and sat out the next three minutes.

During that string Routt scored 12 straight points, with three Porta turnovers against the Rocket press and two missed one-and-one chances aiding the cause. Rourke had two free throws, Loneragan two buckets, Lockman four points and Bonjean a long jumper as Routt closed to within 56-51 with 1:22 to play.

From there Gum broke the press to mid-court from where Washington drove the remaining distance for a layup that broke the Routt momentum. After Bonjean retaliated, Washington added a pair of charity throws with only :22 showing.

Porta finished shooting 54% to Routt's 44% and held a slight board edge. Loneragan turned in a sparkling effort in his first game as a Rocket, firing in 21 points and doing a standout job on the boards. Lockman added 12 as Routt bowed out with a 14-12 mark.

NEW YORK (AP) — The Nixon administration gave a sign the past week that it might be easing its insistence on a 5.5 per cent pay standard amid reports of another solid jump in farm prices.

At the same time, it gave the green light to the nation's commercial banks to boost interest rates as an anti-inflationary measure, and most of them promptly responded by raising the prime lending rate 1 per cent to 6 per cent.

And some analysts were predicting that the prime rate—the minimum lending charge to a bank's top-notch corporate customers—might continue up to the 6 1/2 per cent level as short-term rates continued to climb.

News that farm prices, led by further increases for meat animals, rose 3 per cent in February and averaged 22 per cent more than a year ago seemed to give further evidence of the economy's inflationary spiral.

A week earlier the government reported that consumer prices had surged at a 6 per cent seasonally adjusted annual rate during January, a jump almost entirely due to soaring food prices.

Some relief might be in store for the wage-earner, though, with the indication earlier in the week by a Cost of Living Council official that the administration may be somewhat flexible in enforcing the 5.5 per cent wage guide in upcoming labor negotiations.

The official, who asked not to be identified, said the 5.5 per cent pay standard is only one of a number of guidelines the administration will use in judging acceptable wage boosts this year.

In other economic news, the Commerce Department reported that its composite of leading economic indicators rose 1.2 per cent in January from December levels.

A Commerce Department official said the January rise confirmed the steady upward trend of the nation's economy.

In international developments, the U.S. dollar continued to plunge through the floor in key European markets during the week, forcing central banks to absorb billions.

Stock Market Has Indigestion

By DEBORAH M. RANKIN

NEW YORK (AP) — The dollar crisis abroad gave the stock market indigestion this past week, but President Nixon's promises there wouldn't be another devaluation soothed some of Wall Street's jitters.

The dollar fell under heavy selling pressure and pushed the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial down some 12 points on Monday and Tuesday.

The Dow fell 10 more points Friday before President Nixon told a news conference the dollar would survive attacks by speculators without further devaluation.

The presidential assurances revived the sagging market, and the Dow rose more than 11 points which brought it to 961.32, with a net gain for the week of 1.43 points.

The Dow average had plunged more than 110 points over the past seven weeks.

Brokers said many negative factors still were overhanging the market despite the Dow's recovery. They cited uncertainty over Phase 3, concern over rising interest rates and fear of a fresh outbreak of inflation.

Other indices of stock market behavior had lackluster performances.

The broad-based NYSE index of some 1,400 common stocks fell .65 points to 60.17 for the week, while Standard & Poor's 500-stock index dropped .38 points to 112.28. The Associated Press 60-stock average declined 2.8 points to 315.1.

Declining issues outpaced advances on the Big Board, 1,272 to 513, among the 1,962 issues changing hands. There were 523 new yearly lows and only 16 new yearly highs.

Volume was 85.87 million shares for the week, compared with 58.93 million a week earlier.

Mattel Inc. topped the active list on the Big Board for the second straight week, gaining 1 1/2 to 6 1/2. It had fallen 2 1/2 the previous week after disclosing it expected to show a substantial loss for fiscal 1972.

On the American Stock Exchange, declines swamped advances 905 to 265 among the 1,356 issues traded during the week. Volume totaled 19.82 million shares, compared with 13.86 million a week earlier, and the price-change index fell .39 to 24.68.

Champion Home Builders, a volatile issue, headed the active list for the second straight week and fell 5/8 to 8 1/2.

Rural Waverly Phone Number Changes Told

Almost 200 rural Waverly telephone customers will be issued new numbers next Friday, according to a General Telephone Co. announcement.

The number changes will be listed in the 1973 directories which are to be distributed this month.

The new numbers are required for improved suburban one and four-party service which will be accomplished between July and September, the company said. The announcement said the numbers were being changed now to coincide with the new directories and offer the least inconvenience to customers.

The company said the delay in the improved service is due to time needed to install underground cable and make other changes.

Customers should have received letters notifying them of the number change and containing a temporary paper disk to attach to the telephone dial.

A permanent number card will be installed when the servicemen visits the customer at time service is improved.

Soybeans Futures Advance Checked

By ED DE MOCH
AP Business Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — The steady advance of soybeans futures prices the past month was checked this past week on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Soybeans, meal and oil, wheat and corn all closed on irregular tones, while oats and iced broilers declined.

When trade ended for the week on Friday, soybeans were 2 1/2 cents a bushel lower in new crop months, to 17 1/4 cents higher in the nearby, old crop options with the expiring March at 6.61; wheat was 3/4 to 3/8 higher. March 2.44; corn was 3/4 lower to 3/4 higher, March 1.64 1/2 and oats were 2 1/4 to 9/8 lower, March 85 1/2.

Soybean meal was 500 points or $5 a ton, lower to 500 high, March 224.00; soybean oil was 52 points lower to 11 higher, March 13.60; and iced broilers were 175 to 560 points, or nearly 6 cents a pound lower, March 44.65.

The advance of soybeans prices since Feb. 1 has been without comparison. The March option on that date had a low of 4.86, and last week topped out at 6.81 for a gain of 1.95 in just over four weeks.

The main factor in the buying was concern that stocks of soybeans will be depleted before the 1973 crop is available around September and that the vitally needed soybean meal stocks also may dry up. There also was buying during the week that was linked to a belief that agricultural products which compete for foreign trade with other countries might now be more attractive at lower prices.

Defense Contractors Refused Price Hikes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon, by refusing price increases demanded by two major defense contractors, has served notice of a tougher approach to weapons buying.

In quick succession last week, the Navy told Grumman Aerospace Corp. it would be held to the original contract terms for building the new F14 fighter plane, and it dictated a settlement to Litton Industries for the price of five amphibious helicopter assault ships.

In still a third contract, the Pentagon approved production of the Air Force's new F15 Dogfighter but withheld full funding until engine problems are solved.

The hard-line stance on the Grumman and Litton contracts drew praise from the two most persistent congressional critics of controversial Pentagon procurement practices, Sen. William Proxmire and Rep. Les Aspin, both Wisconsin Democrats.

Proxmire called the Litton decision "tough and right" and said: "If the Navy sticks by its guns, our losses on this program might be held in check and, more importantly, a valuable precedent could be established for handling other mismanaged weapons contracts."

These procurement decisions, the first under the new secretary of defense, Elliot L. Richardson, and his deputy, William P. Clements, establish an image of toughness for the new Pentagon leadership.

As often happens with complex and costly weapons systems, some manufacturers intentionally bid low or "buy-in" to win the contract. But as development progresses they often are unable to meet delivery at the agreed-upon price and attempt to renegotiate the contract at higher cost to the government.

In the Litton case, the Navy said it had been unable after months of negotiation to reach a compromise settlement and was fixing a maximum price of $946 million for the five assault ships.

The churning of gold prices and heavy selling of the United States dollar also contributed to chaotic buying of agricultural commodity futures.

Export business for the week showed some improvement and this tended to influence buying of wheat and corn prices. Oats, however, came under profit-taking but as prices descended buyers were rather scarce on Friday.

Iced broiler prices posted gains for two straight weeks then fell under profit-taking last week.

On the Chicago Mercantile Exchange, cattle futures closed the week about steady to 40 cents higher per hundredweight, while live hogs were steady to 27 cents lower and pork bellies gained 17 to 42 points. Shell egg futures also advanced, with the September option at a crop high.

Cotton futures closed about steady for the week in New York, but cocoa gained 34 to 77 points and copper advanced 40 to 540 points while silver moved up 10 to 22 cents an ounce, all largely on buying linked to the world monetary chaos. World sugar closed 3 points lower to 18 higher and frozen concentrated orange juice lost 80 to 125 points.

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Despite tightened Carnival security, the annual madness of Mardi Gras appeared unabated Saturday as hundreds of thousands gathered for the last days of celebration before Lent.

Mardi Gras — Tuesday — promises to be the wildest, maddest day of all. But for the past two weeks crowds have turned out to watch daily street parades and to catch beads and "doublons" strewn about by the costumed Carnival Krewe.

Municipal Auditorium has been ablaze with lights and filled with the music of the traditional balls that for centuries have marked the high point of the city's social season.

Mayor Moon Landrieu and Police Chief Clarence Giarrusso have issued statements advising citizens to relax and enjoy Carnival and Mardi Gras. They said security has been increased to meet the threat of fires and snipings and there is "no reason to believe this year will be any different from the past."

A fire in the Rault Center killed 12 persons Nov. 29, and there have been a number of less serious blazes in recent months. Mark Essex, 23, of Emporia, Kan., climbed to the top of a downtown hotel in December and began firing on passersby. Seven persons, including Essex, were killed.

Some things have changed. One television station has repeatedly asked carnival goers to keep the streets open for emergency vehicles if trouble starts.

The local tourist commission has changed its tune. Instead of advertising Mardi Gras as "the greatest free show on earth," it asks visitors to come as paying guests. The commission says too many "street people" showed up last year.

Rex, King of Carnival, will lead his parade ahead of the day-long parade Tuesday. Comedian Bob Hope, this year's King Bacchus, will ride the float of the Krewe of Bacchus, an ancient god of wine.

In Ruling

CHICAGO (UPI) — A federal judge ruled Saturday the closing of a theater showing the movie "Deep Throat" may be unconstitutional and issued a temporary restraining order against the city.

The Town Underground Theater was closed Friday by police who interrupted a showing of the X-rated movie. Police said they closed the Town because it was operating without a city license.

The police raid came after a Cook County Grand Jury indicted three officials of the Town Underground Theater Inc., after viewing the movie and its 17 explicit sex acts in 62 minutes.

Saturday, U.S. District Court Judge Hubert L. Will issued a restraining order from his home, ordering the city to stop keeping the theater closed. He said his order was good until Monday, when the case should be assigned to a judge.

"I simply determined that the closing of the Town Theater raised constitutional questions regarding the theater as a vehicle of ideas under the First Amendment," Will said.

He said it was possible the judge assigned the case on Monday could find that the city was justified in closing the theater.

Indicted by the grand jury were Robert E. Hovey, president of the Town Underground Theater Inc.; John Abbattati, secretary; and "Bill Smith" (identified by police as Bertram Ross), the theater manager. If convicted, they could be sentenced to one year in prison and fined $1,000 each.

A New York judge earlier ruled the film has no redeeming social value.

Crane Disaster

BAILEY'S CROSSROADS, Va. (UPI) — A 250-foot wrecking crane hoisted huge slabs of concrete out of the wreckage of a 23-story building Saturday, while salvage crews searched for traces of 10 missing men.

The $200 million building under construction was sliced in half Friday when a giant crane broke through the roof and crashed floor by floor to the ground in a mass of broken concrete and twisted metal. Of 337 men working in the building, five are known dead and 34 were injured.

Labor Secretary Peter Brennan visited the ruins at the request of the White House. He said a federal investigation into the collapse is underway.

"Our part right now is to assist in any way we can," he said. "We are interested in what caused the disaster and what the Labor Department can do to prevent future occurrences."

Working in a light rain, demolition experts began early Saturday to loosen concrete and other debris dangling precariously from the upper floors of the cleft building.

LI. Harry Dizell of the Fairfax County fire and rescue squad said the debris would have to be shaken loose before searchers could dig for victims who may have been buried.

Surveyors kept close watch for any possible shift of the precariously balanced smaller section of the building, but no movement was reported.

There was little hope that anyone had survived. Firemen with jackhammers broke into some portions of the debris and called into passages sealed by the collapse, but there was no response.

One body is visible in the sub-basement but officials said it would be some time before search crews would reach it.

It is uncertain whether the smaller section of the building will have to be demolished. Construction officials said they will wait and see how the debris is removed from the site.

NIXON SENDS THANK YOU TO LOCAL WOMAN

President Richard Nixon sent a note of thanks to Mrs. Hazel Gillespie of 571 Cherry Street for her letter of support concerning the cease-fire agreement announced Jan. 23.

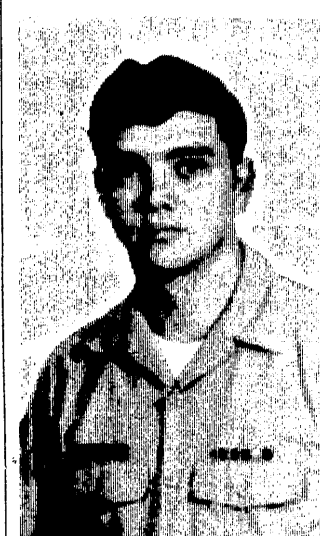

Mrs. Gillespie sat down and wrote a letter to the President following the address to the nation. The reply from The White House was mailed Feb. 28.

"I am deeply grateful for your kind message about my January 23 address to the nation. The agreement announced that evening marks the end of a war which severely tested our national spirit. Now we must turn toward the task of building a lasting, healing peace for Southeast Asia and for the world."

"With your help and support, we can build such a peace so that the next generation of Americans need never know the tragedy of war."

Papal Emissary Consecrates 3 Czech Bishops

NITRA, Czechoslovakia (AP) — A papal emissary consecrated three bishops Saturday in the first such Roman Catholic ceremony in Czechoslovakia since the Communist takeover in 1948.

Archbishop Augustino Casaroli, the Vatican's unofficial foreign minister, presided at the 2½-hour rite in the baroque cathedral of St. Emeran, which was jammed with more than 1,000 worshippers.

Another 2,000 Roman Catholics stood in rain and cold outside the cathedral in this south Slovak city and followed the consecration by loudspeakers.

The ceremony had not been publicized in advance in Czechoslovakia, and many of the worshippers who were without official invitations said they learned of it by radio broadcasts beamed to Czechoslovakia from the Vatican.

"This is a great day for the Slovak Church, the entire Church and all Slovakia has been waiting for many long years," Archbishop Casaroli said in his sermon.

The three bishops, he added, were being elevated to missions "which are extraordinarily difficult. They are not living in a timeless era and they should be able to heed the sign of the times."

He apparently was referring to the delicate status of relations between the Roman Catholic Church and the Communist regime of Czechoslovakia.

Jan Pastor, the new bishop of Nitra, said in a sermon that the consecrations had been made possible by an agreement of the Prague government and the Vatican.

"We believe other agreements will follow which will permit the remaining bishops in Czechoslovakia to be filled," the 63-year-old bishop added.

Named bishop of Banská Bystrica was Josef Feranec, 63. Julius Gabris, 60, became bishop of Trnava.

Thronges of worshippers arrived at the medieval hilltop fortress that surrounds the cathedral hours before the start of the ceremony.

"Some of us rode the train all night to get here in time," said an elderly lady from Atatra Mountain district near the Polish border.

Adds 174 Members

The Final Report of the local YMCA's New Members Campaign was given this week with a most successful total of 174 new members. Out of this 174 new members, 63 were Family, 56 Youth, 14 College, and 41 Adults. Although the goal was to secure 100 new Family members, the campaign was still a resounding success in terms of total value which equaled that of 97 Family memberships.

Family's Love Brought Pow Through

By Kristelle Petersen
DECORAH, Iowa (UPI) — Michael Kjome, 36, saw his family for the first time in nearly six years Saturday and told them their love and lessons were the only things that got him through five years in a Viet Cong camp.

"What my parents taught me at home is what brought me back alive," Kjome told newsmen after he stepped off a charter flight from Rochester, Minn. "This is what kept me going. I used to just think of all the things I learned in church, praying and hoping."

Kjome, a civilian who went to Vietnam in May, 1967 to teach Vietnamese to speak and write English, talked slowly and self-consciously for about 20 minutes before hopping on the only fire truck in this community of 7500 for a cruise along streets lined with hundreds of well-wishers and "Welcome Home Mike" signs.

"It's wonderful to be finally home," said Kjome, the first Iowa POW to return to the state. "Iowa looks awfully good. I'm just going home with my folks for a while. I want to see my friends, take a vacation of three to six months and do some trout fishing."

Kjome, who said he had $1,000 worth of dental work done during six days he spent at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station in Chicago before coming back to Decorah, refused to talk about his captivity, which began Jan. 31, 1968 during the Tet Offensive near Saigon.

"I said he didn't want to talk about prison conditions because it might jeopardize the prisoners still in Vietnam. He said however, that after all the American POWs are home he will tell 'the full story.'"

"I believe that's my duty," said Kjome, Iowa's only civilian POW.

Before niling into a station wagon with his parents George, 64, and Ames, 63, to head for the room they had fixed up for him and the side of beef his friends had bought for him.

Kjome told of how he had carried the last letter he received from home three years ago around in a plastic bag tied on his neck.

Meanwhile, his parents and 11 other relatives who had traveled from as far away as California and Norway to be on hand for his red carpet arrival told him they hadn't definitely known he was alive until about one month ago.

"I did all the house cleaning for the homecoming myself," said Mrs. Kjome, "and you know I enjoyed the housework for the first time in five years."

Kjome, who said he had visited the Playboy Club in Chicago twice during his stay at Great Lakes, said he has "all kinds of romantic interests."

N. Ireland Violence

BELFAST (UPI) — A woman walking on a lonely country lane near the border of the Irish Republic Saturday found the hooded, gagged and bound body of an Ulster militiaman. A British soldier shot by a Protestant gunman two weeks ago died in a Belfast hospital.

The deaths brought the toll of 3½ years of violence among majority Protestants, minority Catholics and British security forces to 739.

In Belfast, bus drivers in the Northern Ireland capital declared a four-day strike to protest the machinegun murder Friday of a fellow worker.

Police said the militiaman was Sgt. David Charles Deacon, 39, of the Ulster Defense Regiment (UDR), an Englishman stationed at the British Army's Londonderry headquarters.

ters. A police spokesman said "he had been shot through the head."

Deacon, who lived in Londonderry, was married and the father of four children. A police spokesman said the woman saw the body on the road outside of Londonderry and alerted a passing patrol of Grenadier Guardsmen, police said.

The bullet in the head and the hood indicated Deacon was the victim of a so-called execution squad.

Police said Deacon had been reported missing Friday when troops found his burned-out car on a road leading from Londonderry to the border.

The soldier who died in Belfast was Pvt. Raymond Hall, 21, shot in the spine by a gunman during the general strike by Protestants on Feb. 17. He was only the second soldier known shot by a Protestant out of the total of 155 servicemen who have been killed in Northern Ireland.

Belfast bus crews walked out Saturday to protest the slaying Friday of Patrick "Big Pat" Crossan, a 38-year-old Roman Catholic, who died when gunmen sprayed his bus with machinegun fire in the Catholic Woodvale district.

The city's bus crews voted at a meeting early in the day to stay off the job until Crossan's funeral on Tuesday.

The bullets that killed Crossan triggered what police described as a "vengeance killing" early Saturday. Gunmen shot and killed a Protestant and wounded another in a machinegun attack outside the Orange Lodge Hall in the heart of Protestant North Belfast.

Police said the two men were hit with a hail of bullets as they stepped out of the hall in the Ligoniel district.

NOTED CHEMIST TO ADDRESS SEMINAR AT MAC TUESDAY

A noted chemist will address an open seminar Tuesday, March 6 at MacMurray College or the relationship between the revolution in 19th Century French chemistry and that country's political revolution.

The public is invited to attend at 4 p.m. in Room 7 of MacMurray's Julian Hall of Chemistry.

Dr. Jane A. Miller, on the faculty at the University of Missouri-St. Louis, was invited to speak by the MacMurray chemistry department. She studied the history of chemistry during the French Revolution for her doctoral dissertation at Tulane University.

Card of Thanks

My sincere thanks and deep gratitude to all relatives and friends for cards, letters, Memorial gifts, flowers and other kind expressions of sympathy during the illness and death of my beloved husband Lawrence T. Goveia. My thanks to the personnel of Passavant and Norris Hospital, Modern Care Nursing Home and my Doctors. I especially thank Rev. Bulgarian Plane Crashes Near Moscow Airport

MOSCOW (UPI) — A Soviet-built Bulgarian turboprop airliner crashed in flames near Moscow's Sheremetyevo Airport Saturday, killing all 25 persons aboard, unofficial reports said. It was the third crash at the airport in five months.

BTA, the official Bulgarian news agency, said the Balkan Airlines Ilyushin-18 on a flight from Sofia carried 17 passengers and an unspecified number of crew. Western airline sources said it had eight crew members.

The passengers included eight Bulgarians, six Soviets, one Vietnamese, one Japanese and one Cuban, BTA said.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency merely said in its report that all aboard died, without giving any figures or nationalities. It said a commission had been appointed to investigate the accident.

The crash brought to 262 the number of dead in three plane disasters in the airport area in five months.

The four-engine plane, which can seat up to 110 passengers, exploded in the air before it slammed to the ground in flames at about 1 p.m. (5 a.m. EST) just over two miles northwest of the airport.

Only the tail section remained intact, the sources said. Skies were sunny and visibility was at least six miles.

ROODHOUSE CLUB VOTES DONATION TO HEART FUND

ROODHOUSE — The Sacred Heart Club of the Catholic church met Feb. 22 at the home of Mrs. John Finnell with seven members present. The president, Mrs. Finnell conducted the business session. It was voted to contribute to the Heart Fund Drive.

PROPER TOOTH BRUSHING is a part of the activities at North Jacksonville school for seven and eight-year olds. One of the children exercises her gums when she brushes in spite of the absence of a couple of front teeth, and each child keeps his tooth brush and tube of remaining tooth paste after the two-week period. In addition, the children are taught which foods they should eat for nutritious value as well as good exercise for their teeth. The brushing period is handled under the supervision of a teacher.

WAITING FOR THE PLANE — Shown with Mrs. Phyllis Rigg, receptionist at Jacksonville Municipal Airport are Tony Crawford, Henry Carl, and Nelson Loudemilk, students at Franklin elementary school. The trip was planned in conjunction with a study of Eskimos and modern ways of travel in Alaska. Students said the first 1,000 feet seemed to be the most exciting part of the trip.

25 Students Learn 'Signs' At Jefferson

Dale DeFrates comes to Jefferson School on Friday afternoons to instruct a group of twenty-five interested students in the art of communicating with the deaf of our community. The purpose of teaching this activity is to acquaint the boys and girls with the deaf sign language. Mr. DeFrates states that he is very pleased with their progress.

Mr. DeFrates learned the sign language from his grandmother, DeFrates, who was employed at the School for the Deaf when he was a small boy. He also attended a class in sign language sponsored by the Westfair Baptist Church. He is now a deaf interpreter and teaches for a deaf Sunday School Class.

In addition to teaching the class, Mr. DeFrates is President of Jefferson School PTA.

Parent Council Meeting Set At Armstrong

On Wednesday, March 7, at 7:30 p.m. at Neil A. Armstrong Junior High School, the Armstrong Parent Council will have its March meeting. The focus for this meeting will be a presentation by the language arts department and the media center of a program on the language arts reading program.

A group of teachers at Armstrong won a grant for this 1972-73 school year which allowed them to buy $5,000 worth of materials directed toward students who have difficulties in reading. This staff will display the materials that they received, and explain to parents how these materials are used with their students in classrooms.

These materials include a great variety of reading materials from low level readers to enrichment. The film to be shown and the discussion to follow will be most beneficial to any parent of seventh, eighth, and ninth grade students interested in the language arts and reading program at Armstrong Junior High School.

In addition, parents will be given their usual opportunity to inquire about anything else they so desire concerning programs at Neil A. Armstrong Junior High School.

Franklin Teachers Give Reading Tips

Read, read, read! You would almost think teachers get paid to circulate books! Can you think of any other subject or skill on which so much depends? Too often a person's success or failure in life is based on his ability to translate the written word into meaningful knowledge.

The importance of reading is not only evidenced in an academic world but its practical necessities are almost boundless. In order to make a satisfactory trip to the supermarket and get there safely by reading the appropriate traffic signs or to follow directions on putting together equipment, one must have the ability to read the written word.

Teachers are often asked by parents what they can do to help their children become better readers and therefore more successful students. The teachers at Franklin Elementary School have discussed this subject frequently and have made the following suggestions:

First, and most important! Read to your children every day. It doesn't need to be for a long period.

Second, let your child read

Third, talk to your children. Tell them about your childhood, your family, our city, what's happening in the world.

Fourth, listen to what they have to say. Encourage them to tell you about what they have worked on or read about in school that day. Keep the line of communication open.

Fifth, encourage young children to read billboards and signs along the streets and roads. It doesn't matter what they read. The ability to decipher words and their meanings is what is important.

Sixth, when you are traveling, even short distances, make it a game to read maps, determine distances, figure out directions and know where they are in relation to home.

Seventh, be sure to reward even small successes. Don't just punish mistakes.

In other words, we would like to encourage you parents to help make learning a full-time operation instead of a few hours a day, five days a week.

Be inventive! Let's use the materials at hand and every day activities to reinforce learning positively.

dollars for adults and six dollars for students, still available and may also be obtained at the door Tuesday night. The fourth concert of the season, April 8th, will be by tenor William McDonald. The tickets are also good for the Quincy Music Association series: March 10th, Butler Ballet and April 15th, pianist Theodore Lettvin.

COMMERCIAL ART students Mark Tribble and Dean Russell designed and painted a sign to be used outside the YMCA to call attention to the current membership campaign. The two students worked on the design and completion about two weeks during regular class periods.

FOURTEEN ART STUDENTS at Jacksonville high school have had their works selected for a special exhibit at the David Strawn Art Gallery March 4-18. Painting, drawing, sculpture, prints and other works made during the 1972-73 school year were selected by Anthony Zaleski, director of the gallery. Twenty-five pieces will be on display for public inspection during regular hours. Students whose works will be part of the exhibit are: Bill Haley, Clay Lemme, Barbara Frank, Suszi Lukeman, Orlando Gomez, Millie Wallace, An Bradney, Debbie Hazelrigg, Brenda Leefers, Leigh Ann Davis, Wina Hewitt, Lisa Riegel, Lora Kilver and Bob Johnson. Chris Brune demonstrates her talent for flower arranging during a sophomore English class. Chris chose for her project the demonstration of making corsages. Millie Wallace poses with several of her sculpture, ceramic and plaster pieces for the display. Orlando Gomez, Brenda Leefers and Ann Bradney show the paintings which they have completed for the art show.

Clash In Legislative Committee Hearings

By TOM LAUE

SPRINGFIELD (UPI)—Farming and environmental interests are again at odds in the Illinois House committee on Agriculture and Natural Resources where two more bills aimed at curbing the powers of the Pollution Control Board have passed.

The House panel, controlled by farm bloc lawmakers, voted Thursday to urge full House passage of a measure that would prevent the PCB from outlawing leaf-burning unless the board can show in tests conducted over a two-year period that leaves burned in a particular place "significantly increased the amount of air contaminants or pollution."

The committee last week approved and sent to the full House an even stronger bill, this one sponsored by Rep. Webber Borchers, R-Decatur.

Borchers' bill would take away from the PCB and the environmental protection agency all power to regulate open leaf-burning.

The leaf-burning ban—effective in towns with 2,500 persons or more—has stirred anger and spokeswoman for the Illinois League of Women Voters, termed leaf-burning a fire, traffic and health hazard.

Clean Air and Good Health Mrs. Alderfer said unrestricted leaf-burning would spew more particulate matter into the air than federal and state standards allow.

"This (proposed) restriction on the PCB," Mrs. Alderfer said, "is detrimental to the clean air of our state and the good health of its citizens."

Samuel T. Lawton Jr., a member of the PCB, offered similar testimony.

But Rep. Pete Pappas, R-Rock Island, sponsor of the two-year test bill, said he is taking no power away from the board. "I only want them to make sure there is pollution before they impose the ban," he said.

Pappas said tests run in the Rock Island-Moline area have shown leaf-burning there doesn't contribute significantly to air pollution.

Rep. Ben Blades, a Republican from downstate Fairfield and chairman of the committee, asked before the vote, "Have opponents of this bill given any thought to how you've inconvenienced us for no reason at all with these seemingly unnecessary leaf-burning rules?" The vote was 14-7.

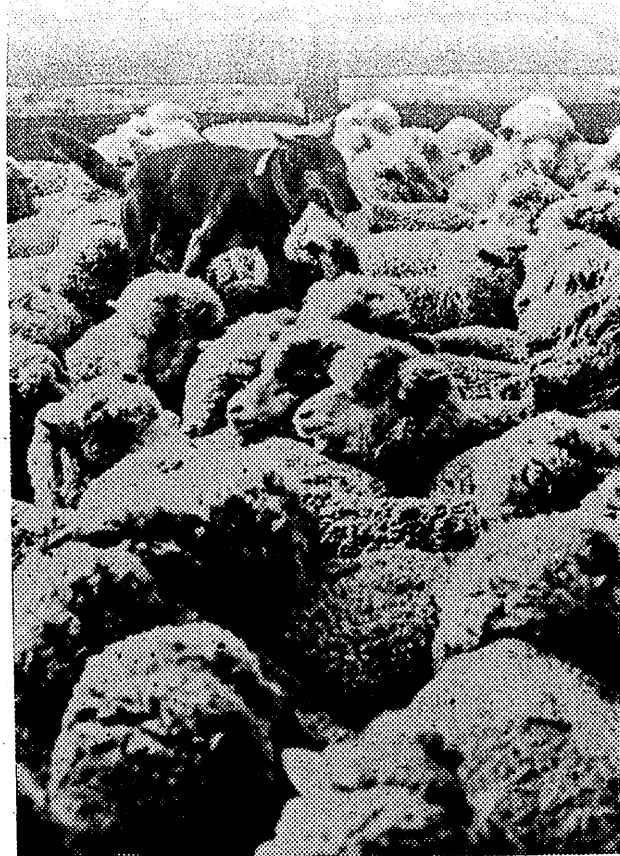

Another Borchers Bill The committee also approved another Borchers bill to prevent the PCB from regulating the "raising or feeding of livestock" on any farm where the concentration of cattle averages no more than 20 head per acre and the feedlot is at least 10 acres.

Borchers' bill says the state can impose no feedlot rules more stringent than the minimum federal regulations that apply to livestock areas. The bill passed, 17-6.

Ecologists have charged animal waste products from feedlots empty into streams and rivers and pollute them.

The committee also approved unanimously a bill to ban the construction of an airport in Lake Michigan. The bill is sponsored by Rep. Bernard Epton, R-Chicago.

Epton said ecology and safety are two good reasons for banning a lake airport. "But the best reason is that people don't want it," Epton said. The committee sent the bill on an 18-0 vote to the entire house.

Morgan Pork Days March 12 And 21

A Morgan County Market Hog Evaluation Day will be sponsored by the county pork producers and the Cooperative Extension Service. This event will take place on Monday, March 12, at 9 a.m. at the Woodson sale barn. This program is open to all swine producers in Morgan county as well as 4-H and F.F.A. members.

The purpose of the evaluation day is to give Morgan county farmers an opportunity to obtain important carcass cutout data on their hogs. Live animal and carcass grades are established, to serve as a yardstick for measuring breeding and feeding achievements to comply with the consumer desire for meat. To improve the quality of pork, to improve the income of the farmer.

Dick Carlisle, Extension swine specialist from the University of Illinois, will be on hand to do the live grading and judging. All hogs will be judged on the basis of grade, quality and uniformity.

Also a carcass discussion will be held on Wednesday, March 21, at 7:30 p.m. at the Illinois Power Building on West Lafayette, Jacksonville.

If further information is desired, please contact Tom Lashmeet at the Morgan Extension office.

Farms Sign Up Feed Grains

In the first 10 days of signups for the 1973 feed grain program 197,698 farms were enrolled, the U.S. Department of Agriculture reported last week.

Farms reported as signed up for the 1973 program from Feb. 5 through Feb. 16 have 12,554,448 acres of feed grain base representing about 10 percent of the 129.8 million acres of eligible feed grain base.

Of the 197,698 farms, 168,409 have signed up for full compliance, electing to set aside 25 percent of their feed grain base. The remainder, 29,289 farms, have elected to participate under a program representing less than full compliance, under which no set-aside is required but 1973 acreage is limited to that planted for harvest in 1972.

611 Morgan Farms 'Sign-Up' With ASC

At the close of business, February 28, 1973 there has been 611 farms signed up in the 1973 feed grain and wheat programs. This represents about 34 percent of the 1963 farms in Morgan County. Of the total 611 farms in the feed grain program 290 farms are signed up for Option A agreeing to set aside 25 percent of their feed grain base and 321 farms are participating in Option B agreeing to limit their feed grain production.

"At this time the sign-up is running a little below a similar period during last year's sign-up," reported Elmer Roegge, Chairman of the Morgan County ASC Committee. However, the sign-up is following the same pattern as last year. Over half of the 1330 farms that were signed up last year did so during the last two weeks.

"The sign-up period ends March 16," continued Roegge, and it will probably not be extended. Farmers should not wait till the last day as the county office staff would not be able to handle all of them.

"Many farmers appear to be undecided as to which way to participate. The soybean market, program changes and the lack of fall plowing are factors that have farmers in a very unusual situation," Roegge said. Farmers will have to make their decision in the next two weeks. There are two ways to participate in the feed grain program. Option A, set aside 25 percent of the feed grain base, maintain the conserving base and receive for corn .32 times program yield times 50 percent of the feed grain base; Option B, maintain the conserving base, do not plant more feed grain than was planted on the farm for harvest in 1972 and receive .15 times program yield times 50 percent of the feed grain base.

All farmers who have a wheat allotment should participate in the wheat program. There is no set-aside acreage required, and it is not necessary to have wheat seeded. The farmer would be required to maintain his conserving base, if he has one. Certificate payments are estimated to be .60 times program yield times wheat allotment.

"Farmers should visit their ASCS office to learn the details of the program," Roegge said. They should consider signing up as a protection against weather if they are unsure of their farming intentions.

Many Farm Groups Seek Extensions Of Current Policy

By DILLON GRAHAM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress was told Friday that the notion that federal payments to farmers can be phased-out over a short time must carry with it legislative safeguards to maintain prices.

"Otherwise, a phase-out of payments simply means a further phase-out of farmers as well," Ray Davis of Potter, Neb., told the Senate Agriculture committee.

"Otherwise, a phase-out of payments simply means a further phase-out of farmers as well," Ray Davis of Potter, Neb., told the Senate Agriculture committee.

Potter, president of the National Association of Wheat Growers, said "the cost of such a policy in human terms is clearly more expensive to the nation than continuance of the wheat certificate program."

He said the certificate program must be maintained until the market can provide adequate and equitable returns to farmers.

"It must be remembered that certificates are only one part of the dual price support system. If we are to consider phasing-out one part of this system, certificates, then the other, price support loans, must be increased," he said.

President Nixon has said he wants to phase out direct farm payments.

Seeks Plan Renewal

Davis said his association recommends continuance of the present farm legislation for five years, with the wheat loan set at a minimum of 50 percent parity as of April 15 of the previous crop year.

The Agricultural Act of 1970 expires this year. The committee is working on a new farm bill and hearing the views of farm groups.

R. K. Siddoway of St. Anthony, Idaho, president of the National Wool Growers Association, urged a five-year extension of the National Wool Act.

Milton Brown of Mount Pleasant, Mich., president of the National Livestock Feeders Association, supported an extension of the present feed grain program.

Extension of PL480 Harold Kuehn of Du Quoin, Ill., spokesman for commodity organizations which cooperate with the Department of Agriculture in market development activities abroad, called for a five-year extension of the PL480 program.

This program authorizes the secretary of agriculture to enter into agreements with foreign and U.S. private trade entities for financing the sale of agricultural commodities for export on such terms as the secretary determines will maximize the sale of U.S. agricultural commodities.

Daniel E. Conway, president of the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International Union, requested elimination of the wheat certificate arrangement, which he called discriminatory.

Landscape Study Set For Tuesday

Professor M. C. Carboneau, Extension specialist in floriculture, University of Illinois, will discuss the use of annuals and perennials at a meeting to be held in Jacksonville Tuesday afternoon, March 6. Extension Advisers Eloise J. Tholen and George Trull are inviting all who are interested.

The meeting is scheduled for 1:30 p.m. Tuesday afternoon at the Jacksonville YMCA Building. The title of Carboneau's presentation will be 'How to Use Annuals and Perennials to Add Color to Your Landscape Plan.'

Why guess on Nitrogen rates?

Lay big-yield groundwork with Unipel®
20-10-10

One trip over the field with this complete high-nitrogen fertilizer gets your basic fertilization job done, and done well. Here's why:

A complete meal for every plant

Each Ortho Unipel® pellet contains precisely the stated ratio of chemically combined N, P₂O₅ and K₂O. And Unipels are uniform in size and density. This gives your corn plants three important nutritional "extras":

1. Precise, uniform spreading. So each corn root has a good chance of coming in contact with several nutrient-packed Unipels.
2. Each Unipel's precise N-P-K ratio gives continuous feeding action. Fast-acting nitrate Nitrogen and Phosphate get plants going. Long-lasting ammoniac Nitrogen and Phosphate supply yield-boosting nutrients throughout the growing/maturing seasons.
3. Double-action uptake of nitrogen and phosphate gives up to 50% better phosphate uptake than separately-applied N and P.

Result: A balanced nutrient supply for every plant, all season long!

From the Illinois State Register:
The backbone of winter remains intact.

Candidates are bowing around the streets in remarkable plenty. House cleaning time is fast approaching, and the benedictines will soon take to the woods. Peoria is writhing under the necessity of raising the $20,000 required to hold the location of the state fair at that place. Roses have thorns.

The song of the bluebird will soon mingle among the voices of the feathered warblers. We understand that the American Bridge company, of Chicago, have contracted with the Springfield & Northwestern Railroad to build a bridge across the Sangamon river, one mile south of Petersburg. The bridge is to cost $7,375, and will be finished by April.

From the Carrollton Gazette:
PIANO TUNING — Prof. O. Blanchard, of Jacksonville, has arrived to tune pianos in Carrollton, Whitehall, and the surrounding country. Leave orders at the postoffice. (ADV.)

A change of sixty degrees in the weather in twenty-four hours is hard to take, but our people lived through the day and night of the 22d. The ghost of Washington must have given us the "cold shoulder."

Mr. J. C. Cobb and family have removed from Roodhouse to Fort Scott, Kans., sending their stock and effects overland by trustful parties.

From the Virginia Gazette:
Ten hours of good broad daylight is the order of nature now. Some of our exchanges are calling February 14th, St. Dogerel's Day. Very appropriate.

Weatherwise prophets tell us that we are sure to see "winter" linger in the lap of spring. Such familiarity is contemptible.

Winter wheat looks well, so far as the well posted agriculturist can tell.

Our local markets are a little stronger: Wheat, $1.75, corn 25 cents, oats, 25 cents, cattle $5.25 to $5.75; hogs, $3.65 to $3.80.

Any Water Witchers Around?

The other night, while making fellowship with Albert McNeely at Don English's tonsil ablation emporium on West Morgan street, he mentioned that he didn't know "anybody who can witch a water well these days."

Albert now lives out Massey Lane way but he was born in Scott county, near Lynnville, and grew up in that neighborhood.

"We had some good water witchers," he recalled. "The best, probably, was Roy Heaton, who could find water with a peach limb, or laurel branch, or even a piece of baling wire. Homer Morris was mighty good too, but he used a peach branch, exclusively."

Two kids were listening to Bert's remarks. Now, I don't mean they were kids in the sense that they were too young to drink, or vote, or get married, but when you get around Bert's age or my age, anybody under 30 is a kid.

"What's a water witcher?" one of them asked most politely. The other said he had heard of water witchers, but never knew one, or how he operated.

Depth Ascertained
They were told that a water witch could locate underground streams or pools of water, and the best of them could just about tell how deep you had to dig or bore to get to said aqua.

They used a vast assortment of accessories to help them in their craft — but a high percentage used a forked branch of a peach tree. They'd sharpen the main branch to a point and grasp the two branches firmly, right and left hand, and walk around the location where the proprietor would like to have a good well of water, and when the pointed end dipped down there was the water. Sometimes, in the hands of real, high-class witchers, the point would bob up and down a few times — each bob meant the water was 10 feet below the surface — four bobs, forty feet, etc.

Or so they claimed.

An Old Skill
Water witching have been with us, all over the world, ever since writing was developed and probably for many, many centuries before that. In most countries, though, they are known as water diviners, but in the U.S.A. the moniker is witch, though in at least one part of Kentucky they are known as twitchers, which seems to me to be a more apt description.

Bert believed the old boys had the skill to locate good wells, although he doesn't know anything about the current crop — that is, if they exist today.

"I remember one time a man wanted his well just at such-and-such a place, though Heaton said it should be some 200 feet to the south. Well, this guy got a driller, and they bored away and bored away until they hit the limit of the machine, 90 feet, and got a dry hole, or, practically a dry hole, without enough water in it to water a goose.

"So, they took the machine 200 feet to the south and hit fine water and plenty of it at 30 feet, just as Roy said."

An Unbeliever

Now, I never paid any attention to water witching. I thought it was strictly humbug, and through the years have found that my early impressions were correct. But I did see one demonstration that was a true convincer.

First, the fizzles along the way, and then the convincer.

My father was a true devotee of the art, but somehow he never managed to find water. He could take a peach crotch and put on the best "dry run" you ever saw of locating water, but when somebody took his advice said guy always ended up with a dry hole.

Whenever "city folks" visited the farm Dad was sure to do some pruning out on the peach orchard and he would demonstrate how to find water. He particularly favored a spot just between the tool shop and the farm scales, "where two underground streams met."

"There's enough water here to take care of a big city," was the way Dad put it as his peach limb jerked up and down. The same peach limb entirely behaved itself, in a most static fashion, when I handled it.

The Wells Go Sour
About 20 years ago the water in the two wells on the farm — one had been dug about 1850 and the other during the Civil War, became low and bad tasting, as did many early wells in the community because the water table in the whole county was going lower every year.

Dad actually welcomed this it gave him an opportunity to put a well just where he wanted it, and get a magnitude of fine water. So he sunk a well at the cost of a pretty penny, at the exact spot where these two great veins intersected, and he got water — that is some water, enough for a few cows and a few hogs, but it was so mineralized it was hardly potable.

The well was an all-around, straight-out fizzle, and still is. Twenty years ago, or so, a group of west central Illinois counties were looking around for a place to build a summer 4-H camp. We pushed for Lake Jacksonville and won. Ed Garlich, the Morgan county farm adviser, became the chairman of the building committee and practically worked himself silly trying to get water.

He worked only 20 hours a day, or so. We rounded up every witcher we could find, and drilled a dozen or so wells — all failures. So, in desperation, at an expense that wasn't budgeted, water was pumped out of the lake, filtered and chlorinated — a system that is still used today.

"Another 25 Feet"
None of the witchers could figure out why the wells were dry, but they thought that maybe it was because the well wasn't bored deep enough, much like the old wildcatter in Centalla who quit drilling for oil at 1,275 feet and a year or so later another wildcatter, on the same site, bored down to 1,300 feet and got a 500 barrel per day well.

The first old boy said later on: "If I can get somebody to grubstake me I'm going to try for another well. Got it all witched, and lots of oil there. But I'll tell you one thing, I'll never quit drilling until I go down another 25 feet."

The Exception
When I was a kid a neighbor had water troubles. So he sent for the No. 1 water witch in Central Illinois, a farmer who lived near the Menard-Logan county line. This fellow loved to hunt for water — if he heard of anybody desiring his services he'd saddle his horse or crank up his Tin Lizzie, and take off. He paid little attention to his small farm — and later the bank had to take it over.

He witched around and came up with this startling bit of information — the well was eight feet too far north.

Now, the neighbor thought so much of this fellow's reputation that he followed his instructions to the T, took out the brick liner of the old well, and filled up the old well with the dirt from the new well.

The old water witcher said that he'd come to blue clay at 22 feet, and not to dig into it until he had at least six feet of the new well bricked up. He said that this blue clay held a fine stream of A-1 water, that the clay actually worked as a conduit for the water just as a pipe does.

Nearly Washed Out
And that is what happened; after digging in the blue clay about two feet up surged the water, and everybody had to work like the dickens to get the brick liner in before being flooded out.

By next morning there was 10 feet of the finest water you ever slid down your gullet in that well, and there still is to this day.

The last well witcher I chanced upon was some ten years ago, just before his untimely death. He witched with a piece of barbed wire. He said he could do it with a piece of baling wire OK, but barbed wire was faster.

Now, I believe that. It makes sense. Anybody knows that the spurs on barbed wire would be more efficient, faster, as they stick out just like the ears of a radar set-up.

I'm passing this piece of valuable information along to anybody interested — at absolutely no charge.

Cass Treasurer Releases Tax Fund Figures

BEARDSTOWN — Mike Barnett, Cass county treasurer, in his seventh news release since taking office, announced Feb. 27 that it is "uncertain as to where the interest on funds in escrow will be placed."

First priority in his office, he said, will be making the refunds of the $420,000 which represents personal tax funds put out at interest.

On Thursday, Feb. 22 the United States Supreme Court upheld the abolition of the state personal property tax, making the ruling retroactive to Jan. 1, 1971. The state referendum to abolish the tax was passed Nov. 3.

According to Treasurer Barnett no action can be taken on refunds until 60 days following the court decision. A request has been sent to the attorney general of Illinois regarding the disposition of interest money by the County Treasurers Association.

While Attorney General William J. Scott has not made a formal ruling he did say on Friday Feb. 23 that Illinois' 102 counties should "avoid piranha lawyers coming in and making profits" and that interest should be paid immediately when refunding personal property taxes paid in 1971 and 1972.

Barnett said he believed the interest belonged to the people and should be refunded, but he had no formal information on the attorney general's opinion.

"The people of the county will receive all information that comes to the treasurer's office," he stated.

It is evident that in most counties, where the monies have been put out in different ways on interest, there may be more trouble than in those counties where only a single type investment has been made.

In Cass county the personal property tax money in the amount of $419,500 has been invested in certificates of deposit in the banks at Beardstown, Virginia, Ashland and Arenzville. Mr. Barnett has stated the interest amounts to $10,000.

can afford to run away," he says. "My advice is 'don't run.' The belly of the beast is where the big battle takes place, the lair of the monster. They're going to have to carry me away from the Hudson Valley in a box. That log cabin we live in, my wife and I built it with our own hands," says Seeger. Although born in New York City and educated at Harvard for two years, he looks as rustic as he sounds.

Like many other Americans, Seeger didn't stand up and cheer when he heard the peace announcement ending the longest and costliest war in U.S. history. Instead he felt a quiet but cautious relief.

"Some say it's four years too late. I think it's 10 years too late. No one's celebrating because no one knows what will happen next. We may be living with this thing for a long time.

"I'll feel we've turned toward peace when the Pentagon budget is the same size as the budget for the 'all-out war on pollution' — not a hundred times bigger as it is now. This truce is a step forward, I just don't know how big a step."

So Seeger, armed with his machine and a dogged optimism, will continue to sing his songs. "Where once it was argued that the pen was mightier than the sword," he writes in "The Incomplete Folk Singer," perhaps now the guitar could be mightier than the bomb."

Potluck precedes C.D. of A. court meeting Mar. 1

The St. Patrick theme was carried out at the CDA annual potluck and meeting Thursday evening, March 1, at the K. of C. Hall.

Chairman of the social committee, Mrs. James Steele, was assisted by Mrs. Floyd Hepworth, Mrs. Robert Roach, Mrs. Clara Lyman, Mrs. Harold McNamara, Mrs. Leo McManus, Mrs. Albert McNeely, Mrs. Paul Wagner and Mrs. Robert Mullens.

Regent, Mrs. Don English, presided over the business meeting and reminded the court that the month of March is to be devoted to charitable involvement. The court voted to donate a monetary gift to the Junior Women's Club for establishing a Garden and Braille Trail at the Illinois Braille and Sight-Saving School.

A nominating committee was elected for the purpose of selecting a slate of officers to be presented at the April meeting.

Mrs. Con Lonergan reported on the meeting Saturday, February 24, in Springfield of the National Council of Catholic Women.

Members were asked to bring magazines to court meetings to be distributed to the veterans at the State Hospital for recreational reading.

POLICE CALLED
City police were called to the Spare Room at the Bowling Center about 7:50 p.m. Saturday where what was described as a brawl was underway. Officers subdued the participants and removed one gentleman, telling him never to come back.

LOCATION: Just southeast of West Pennsylvania-South West Street intersection in South Jacksonville.

These old water heaters, trash cans, scrap metal, etc., give the whole neighborhood a bad appearance.

Police Officers—

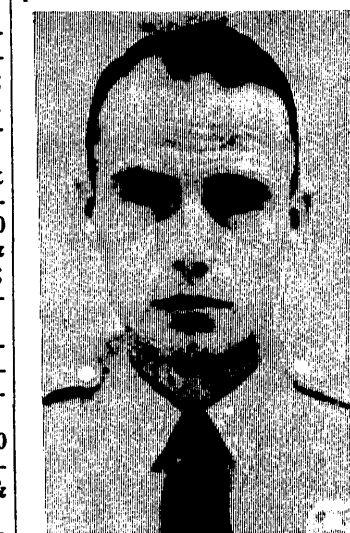

Brune, Williams, Potter Promoted

Three Jacksonville police officers have been promoted to higher positions of responsibility in the department as the result of competitive examinations administered by the Board of Police and Fire Commissioners.

The three promotions, effective Saturday, Mar. 3, include: Lt. Robert L. Brune to the rank of captain; Sgt. Everett Lee Williams to the rank of lieutenant; and Detective Patrolman James L. Potter to the rank of Sergeant.

Michael Meyer of 1620 South Diamond, a former employee at Anderson Clayton Company, has been appointed as a probationary patrolman to fill the vacancy. The openings resulted from veteran police Captain Wilbur Stafford taking a leave of absence to accept a position with the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission.

Written examinations were given by the Police and Fire Commissioners for the successive ranks involved in competition among those police officers qualified to take the test.

Capt. Robert L. Brune

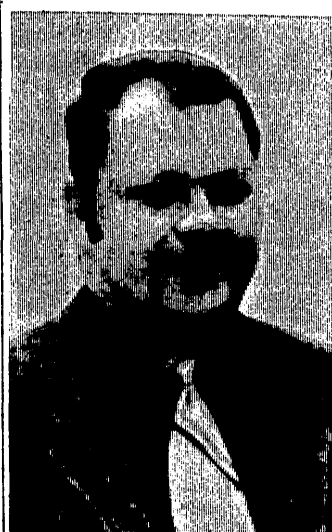

Capt. Robert L. Brune has been a member of the department since 1954 and has served as lieutenant for the past two years and as sergeant prior to that time. His responsibility will be in the field of traffic and patrol for all shifts.

Lt. Everett L. Williams

Lt. Everett Lee Williams has served as a member of the Jacksonville Police Department since 1960 and in the position of sergeant for the past two years. His new responsibilities will be command of one of the three shifts.

Births
Mr. and Mrs. Hubbert Sides of Versailles became parents of a son at 8 p.m. Friday at Passavant hospital.
Mr. and Mrs. Corydon Hubbert of Winchester became parents of a daughter at 11:51 a.m. Thursday, March 1st, at Passavant hospital.

Sgt. James L. Potter

Sgt. James L. Potter started in 1961 as a member of the police department and has served in the detective section of the local department for several years. Potter will return to regular uniform to one of the three shifts starting at once.

Chief of Police Charles P. Runkel said his department is now up to 32 sworn police officers, including himself. Chief Runkel said a member of the force would soon be appointed to replace Potter in the detective section.

"Neither had any urge to act," she says, "for which I am very glad. I am particularly glad about my daughter because acting is a very tough field for a girl. I had a drive. You have to have that otherwise a girl cannot succeed in this business."

She says she has usually found that actors are pretty nice people. But not always. She recently made a film in Italy called "The Game," and her co-star was Alberto Sordi.

"I call him Alberto Sordi," she says. "When he met me at the airport he spoke perfect English. But he would not speak a word of English on the set, when we shot. He spoke only Italian than. I just thank God that Joseph Cotten was there with me."

"I think Sordi did it in an attempt to throw me but he didn't succeed. Over the years, I've met only a very few unpleasant actors. Usually, we're pretty nice among ourselves."

Museum Institute Activity Discussed

Members of the Prairieland Heritage Museum Institute met Friday evening at the Ranch House restaurant to discuss proposed plans and activities for the 1973 year.

The museum is located on the grounds of the Morgan County Fair Association and plans are underway to provide for a not-for-profit corporate status as well as a membership campaign.

C. D. (Pat) Kenny, president of the organization called the meeting to order and heard reports from various committees interested in the museum. Mr. Kenny reported that a corporate charter for the organization would be secured within the next week or two.

Plans were made to have Treasurer Joe Winter conduct a membership campaign among the interested community at five dollars annually. The museum is located on the fairgrounds and the Prairieland Heritage Institute has been formed in cooperation with the fair association to promote the farm museum.

Three-Day Show

A three-day threshing demonstration and show will be held on the fairgrounds September 14, 15, and 16. Antique steam engines and other machinery and craft demonstrations are being scheduled for the annual show.

Clifford Upchurch was appointed to head a clean-up committee for getting the museum in shape for opening to the public in mid-April.

President Kenny read a letter from Jacksonville Mayor Dan F. Lahey in which a 1923 American LaFrance fire engine and a 1902 horse-drawn pumper were mentioned to become a permanent part of the exhibits.

Efforts are underway to restore the old pumper. A large hole in the boiler will be repaired in an effort to provide a working demonstration for the public.

Proceeds from the membership campaign will be used to finance repairs to the antique machinery so that it may be shown in operation.

Mrs. Thelma Pinson, chairman of the local tourism council, said her organization would assist in every way possible to boost the interest in the museum.

Charge to the museum was set at fifty-cents for adults and 25-cents for children.

The members of the Prairieland Heritage Museum Institute meet on the first Friday of each month at the Ranch House.

Efforts are underway to secure the loan of a long list of antique farm implements from individuals and families. The items may be returned at the

ELIZABETH COX WITH AIR FORCE IN GERMANY

WIESBADEN, Germany — Airman First Class Elizabeth A. Cox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis W. Cox of R.R. 4, Jacksonville, is among U.S. Air Force personnel participating in a massive NATO training exercise taking place in West Germany.

Airman Cox, an administrative specialist with the F-4 Phantom-equipped 49th Tactical Fighter Wing from Holloman AFB, N.M., and her fellow airmen are supporting the Tactical Air Command unit's personnel taking part in the maneuvers.

The exercise—dubbed "Crested Cap IV"—is the fourth in a series being held as part of the U.S. contribution to increased NATO readiness. The 49th's four squadrons of Phantoms are based at Holloman but still are committed to NATO.

Two of the wing's squadrons made the transoceanic flight recently with mid-air refueling provided by the Strategic Air Command KC-135 Stratotanker aircraft. They are operating from their former home stations at Hahn and Bitburg air bases.

The other two squadrons will join the first two deployed units in early March.

Airman Cox is a 1969 graduate of Jacksonville High School.

Real Estate
LICENSEEES
HOW BIG IS BIG MONEY?

To some people it is making $1,000 a month. To others $5,000 a month, right in their own hometown—We have both kinds.

So it's Opportunity if you qualify for the STROUT Team. Not everybody does. But ask yourself if you are ready for your real estate license to start bringing you Important Money. Ask too, do you really Like People? And do you have Common Sense?

If yes, then ask for information on the "People-Business." It's mailed without obligation. Could be the start to Something Big—with the World's Largest.

OPERATING ENGINEERS APPLICATION FOR APPRENTICESHIP The Operating Engineers Apprenticeship and Skill Improvement Committee for Central Illinois is accepting applications for apprentices during the month of April, 1973. Applications may be obtained at the Illinois State Employment Office or by writing to P.O. Box 2983, Springfield, Ill. 62708.

WHAT IS AN OPERATING ENGINEER? He operates various types of heavy equipment such as bulldozers, auto patrols, earth moving machines (scrappers), cranes, pile drivers, hoisting equipment, asphalt pavers and rollers, and many others.

WHO DOES HE WORK FOR? He is employed by contractors to do construction work. In Central Illinois, Local 965, International Union of Operating Engineers, has an agreement with these contractors which enables the Local Union to refer employees to the contractor.

HOW MUCH MONEY DOES HE EARN? The Operating Engineer's wage scale is comparable to other Building and Construction Trades wage scales in this area. Also included are fringe benefits such as hospital insurance and pension.

QUALIFICATIONS FOR APPRENTICESHIP Fill out an application form and mail it to P.O. Box 2983, Springfield, Illinois. Have 2 years high school or GED certificate. Be physically capable of performing the duties of this trade. Be at least 18 years old and not over 25. (This age limit is extended if you have military service.) Pass an aptitude test which is administered by the Illinois State Employment Service. Be interviewed by the Joint Apprenticeship Committee. Be selected as an Apprentice by the Joint Apprenticeship Committee.

SUBMIT APPLICATION TO: Local 965 INTERNATIONAL UNION OF OPERATING ENGINEERS 3520 East Cook Street SPRINGFIELD, ILLINOIS Or Mail To P.O. Box 2983

Taxpayers Turn Attention To County Courthouse

By OLIVER WIEST

Now that the most hated tax in Illinois history has been abolished — at least as it applies to individuals — taxpayers are turning their eyes toward the county courthouse in anticipation of refund checks.

Morgan County Treasurer Dean Colwell is awaiting the answer to two key questions before making personal property tax refunds:

— Does the tax exemption extend to an individual's business property?

— Who gets the interest earned on escrow accounts, the taxpayer or the county?

Escrow Accounts

Personal property taxes payable last year were deposited in escrow accounts pending the U.S. Supreme Court's ruling on an appeal of an Illinois high court decision. The federal court ruled Feb. 22 that the state could abolish the tax on an individual's personal property while continuing to tax corporate property.

Scott's Opinion
The first question has been answered by Atty. Gen. William Scott in a letter which should be received by county officials Monday. Scott said the business property, as well as the non-business property, of individual farmers, store-owners and other individual businesses is no longer subject to the tax.

Scott is on record (in an opinion issued Jan. 22, 1971) favoring tax refunds with interest to the taxpayer. In previous cases, interest earned on escrow accounts has become the property of the county and was deposited in the general fund.

A spokesman for the attorney general's office said last week there are two lawsuits pending in Cook County — brought by the Illinois Agricultural Association and Lake Shore Auto Parts — that may decide the interest question.

Work Underway

Colwell's staff has been at work three weeks dividing the 7,500 personal property tax payments into corporate and non-corporate classes in preparation for the refunds.

When those refunds will be made now hinges mostly on the interest question. It appears, based on the statements of lawyers in the attorney general's office and in the Dept. of Local Government Affairs, that county treasurers will have the information they need by the end of this month or early April.

$350,000 Due

Bob Hall, who has been directing the refund preparations for Colwell, estimated last week that $351,000 of the $1.3 million collected in personal property taxes last year will be refunded. This leaves about $876,000 paid by corporations which will be available to county taxing units.

Investments

Treasurer Colwell said taxes held in escrow accounts were first invested in January in a 30-day certificate of deposit at 5.7 per cent interest. The money was reinvested last month at 6.5 per cent, Colwell said.

Prior to January the money was deposited in non-interest bearing accounts in Morgan County's seven banks, the treasurer said. Asked why he failed to invest the money before then, Colwell replied he was "waiting until we had it all in."

The treasurer's records reveal that of the $1,226,844 collected in personal property taxes last year, $1,205,097 was received by the end of July. The remainder of $27,747 was collected between August and November.

Interest earned on the money as it has been invested totaled about $13,000 at the end of last month, according to Colwell's figures.

Had that money been deposited monthly as it was received last year for terms of one to six months at 5.5 per cent interest it would have earned about $28,000 by the end of the year.

State Law

Colwell said he was unaware of a state law which became effective July 27, 1972, regarding the handling of personal property tax payments by individuals.

That law states, in part, "The county collector of each county shall deposit in a special interest bearing account an amount equal to all payments of ad valorem (according to value) personal property taxes extended in 1972 against personal property owned by a natural person, or two or more natural persons in common..." pending final disposition of the case which was heard by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Colwell said prior to January the money had been handled in the same manner as any other tax receipts and deposited in banks serving the area from which the collections were made.

The banks receiving free use of the personal tax receipts, Colwell said, were the Chapin

State Bank, Farmers and Traders State Bank in Meredosia, the Franklin Bank, Wempe State Bank in Waverly, the Elliott State Bank, Farmers State Bank, and First National Bank of Jacksonville.

Impact

The loss of the personal property tax on individuals will be felt most by school District 117, which gets the lion's share of county tax revenue.

The School District's administration had estimated it would receive $551,000 from the tax during the current school year. Based on the county-wide ratio of 70-30 of corporate to non-corporate tax payments, District 117 would lose about $165,000. (That figure might vary significantly however, since the ratio for the entire county may not be typical of the area encompassed by the school district.)

The loss of that revenue would be a major blow to the financially-strapped school district, which may have to issue tax anticipation warrants to meet operating expenses.

County Level

On the county government level, the abolition of the tax may be a disguised blessing, at least so far as Supervisor of Assessments Lawrence Quinlan is concerned.

Quinlan pointed out the cost of assessing the personal property tax totaled 65 per cent of his assessment budget while the tax generated only about seven per cent of the revenue.

Quinlan said the corporate taxes were relatively easy to assess.

"All this (the tax abolition) is doing for us," Quinlan said, "is getting rid of a lot of headaches."

Commissioners

The county commissioners — F. Byron Smith, Chester Thompson and Robert Foster — said they were looking to the legislature to replace revenue the county has lost.

Smith said he thought federal revenue sharing funds could be used to soften the blow of the personal property tax loss though this money would not benefit the school district. The county will receive about $240,000 in revenue sharing funds.

Set Mother-Daughter Banquet For May 10

By MRS. JAMES COX (Winchester Correspondent)

WINCHESTER — Members of the First Baptist Afternoon Mission Society met at 1:45 p.m. at the church Thursday.

Group singing opened the meeting led by Mrs. J. M. Schnake accompanied by Mrs. Roy Reynolds.

The program "Born Free For Other," was presented by Mrs. Schnake and her committee.

Mrs. Burl Merriman, president, conducted the business session. Announcement of the AREA II meeting to be held March 18 at Rammelkamp Chapel at Illinois College was made. All members were urged to attend.

The Mother-Daughter Banquet was announced to be held May 10 at the church with Mrs. Edward Frost and Mrs. Truman Scott as co-chairmen of the event. Committees were appointed to serve.

There were 29 members attending the meeting. Refreshments were served by Mrs. David Welch, Mrs. Helen Gregory, Mrs. Ossie Summers, Miss Hester Kory, and Miss Ruth Reeder.

The April 5 meeting will be held at 1:30 at the Scott County Nursing Home. Mrs. Norbert Hutcheon will be in charge of the program.

WSCS Meets

Twenty-two members of the WSCS of the United Methodist Church met Thursday at Sibert Hall with the president, Miss Freida Balke presiding.

Mrs. Ruth Stehman presented the program entitled "Dominion of the Great Spirit" which centered on a timely subject concerning Indians.

Following the meeting refreshments were served by Mrs. Robert Reid, Mrs. Elmer Stuart, Mrs. Carl Woodcock, Mrs. Reaugh Jennings, Mrs. Bernard Chipman and Mrs. Rowe Leib.

Re-Schedules Meeting
The Lucille Dawdy Circle of Grace Baptist Church has rescheduled their meeting to Tuesday, March 6 at 10 a.m. at the home of Mrs. John Brown.

A potluck dinner will be served at noon. The ladies

JHS And Routt Students Attend Speech District

Seven students from Jacksonville High School qualified for sectional competition in the Illinois High School Association Speech Contest.

The students competed at the District contest held Saturday, March 3 at Triopia High School. Taking first place in their events were: Lenora Killam, Verne Reading; Mary Biggs, Dramatic Interpretation; and John Watson and Millie Wallace, Duet Acting. Mike Brandenburg placed second in Humorous Interpretation and Jan Blimling took third place in Radio Speaking.

Also participating in the competition were three students representing Routt High School. Advancing from the preliminary rounds and going into the district finals were Jenny Niehaus, who spoke on "Judicial Inquiry and Freedom of the Press," Carol Quinlan presented a Special Occasion Speech which dealt with a humorous presentation of an award, and Margie Hunt gave an Original Comedy sketch entitled: "Dishwasher."

JHS also took second place with a cutting from Maxwell Anderson's "Joan of Lorraine." Included in the cast were: Jan Blimling, Eric Blackburn, Denise Smith, John Watson, Mike Brandenburg, Larry Knight, Cindy Fawkes, Carolyn Pleimtscher, Mary Biggs, Elaine Smith and Jill Hubbard.

JHS totaled enough points to earn them second place in the contest.

Individual events will compete in the Sectional Contest held at Wood River on March 17. Play competition is also scheduled for Wood River on March 24.

The JHS students were coached by Mrs. Jackie May.

Individual contest winners were awarded ribbons and members of the play cast received a certificate for their part in the competition.

At the Sectional contest, students will be competing against 11 other students in their category. The first two places in each event from Sectional will progress to the State Finals.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 3 p.m. today.

Delmar DeFrates Dies Saturday

Delmar DeFrates, long-time resident of Jacksonville, died Saturday night. Remains were taken to Cody and Son Funeral Home.

Arrangements are incomplete.

ROODHOUSE MAKES PLANS TO HONOR RETURNING POW

ROODHOUSE — A meeting of interested citizens of Roodhouse and the surrounding area was held Feb. 28 at the Hopkins Community Hall for the purpose of formulating plans for welcome home ceremonies for Major Philip Smith.

The celebration will be scaled according to his physical condition and acceptance by his family and no definite date can be made at this time. Tentative plans are being organized as they cannot wait and materialize overnight. If it is Major Smith's personal desire, they might even be cancelled, but if favorable, they will be put into action.

Appropriate recognition will also be made for other veterans serving in the Vietnam conflict and a memorial for the three young men bearing a Roodhouse address who made the supreme sacrifice.

The next meeting will be held on Monday night, March 5, at 7:30 and the public is urged to attend in order to make it a community project. Definite ideas will be turned into committees at this time, as no chairmen of plans have been made at this time.

No Passavant Abortions Yet

By FRANK BRIDGEWATER

Abortions cannot be performed at Passavant hospital and will not be allowed until Illinois Attorney General William Scott issues a statement, according to William Mitchell, administrator of the hospital.

Mitchell said the statement will include what the state of Illinois will require and allow regarding abortions. Abortions are not allowed at the hospital presently because the hospital could apparently be held legally responsible if anything went wrong.

The executive committee of the medical staff at the hospital is meeting Tuesday, Mitchell said, and will make a recommendation to the hospital's board of trustees on what action to take.

Clarendon (Yorker) Smith, president of the board of trustees, said a special meeting of the executive committee and the board will be held soon.

The meeting, Smith said, was not called to discuss the new ruling, but he's certain it will be a matter of discussion.

Passavant Medical Staff
Dr. Francis Vincent, president of the medical staff at Passavant, said his comments "must necessarily be held in reserve until such time the board of trustees and the medical staff can convene for the said purpose of deciding upon a policy to be adopted."

"Soon there is expected to be a called meeting of representative members of both the board of trustees and the medical staff," he added.

Medical Society
Dr. R. H. Simmons, president of the Morgan Scott Medical Society, speculated on two major questions which arise as a result of the ruling.

First, will the hospital allow abortions? Dr. Simmons said he presumed some action will be taken in conjunction with the Supreme Court ruling so the hospital will have to allow it.

Secondly, will persons be able to find a doctor who will agree to do the operation? Dr. Simmons said he was not planning to go into the business.

Health Department
William D. Meyer, director of the Morgan County Health Department, said that before the ruling his office referred people with abortion inquiries to Child and Family Services where they could be counseled.

Now, Meyer said, the department will probably refer the abortion seeker to her personal doctor.

Child, Family Services
Frank Harris, administrator of Child and Family Services, said his office in the past has referred girls to one of two places: a family planning clinic, which can take care of transporting a girl to where abortions are legal; or to the Clergy Consultation service, which would aid a girl in the same way.

Now that abortions are legal, Harris said, "We would enter into a different kind of relationship with the client." Now, he said, it will depend on what the communities do. If they open hospitals for abortions, he supposes girls will be referred there. He hopes that any clinics which might open will provide a counseling service.

Harris said Child and Family Services would "probably continue to use and make referrals to the two agencies because they are more aware of planning of the abortion services."

He said he would undoubtedly be receiving new guidelines soon from the state.

Clergy Consultation

Rev. John T. Shaffer works with the Springfield based Clergy Consultation Service, a legal entity in Illinois, in trying to work out the best alternative in cases of unwanted pregnancies.

While Rev. Shaffer does not counsel a girl to get an abortion, he assists the girl who for one reason or another has decided abortion is the best alternative. He helps to work out a legal abortion by way of making arrangements where it is legal.

He doesn't like "abortion as such, but in many instances it is the best of alternatives." He said whereas the wealthy have always been able to get abortions because they could go wherever necessary, the less wealthy have not shared that fortune. The new ruling, he said, will help correct this inequity.

Also, according to Rev. Shaffer, "The illegal abortion racket has been going on for years and years and years. It's been a terrible thing. Maybe this will put a crimp in it."

Perfect Record For Kiwanians

At the March 1st meeting of the Jacksonville Kiwanis Club, Len Daniel, Chairman of the Education and Attendance Committee, announced the names of the members that achieved a perfect attendance record over the past years. To achieve a perfect attendance, a member must regularly attend the weekly meetings.

Should a member find that he is unable to attend his own club's meeting, he may attend another Kiwanis Club meeting or attend the monthly board meeting or attend a round table meeting.

The following men attained this distinction: 26 years — A. W. (Waddy) Applebee; 16 years — Hobie Hinderliter; 15 years — Oliver Buck; 14 years — Alfred Henderson; 12 years — Merle Wade; nine years — Ralph Troyer, Carroll Rexroat.

Seven years — Charles Quinn; six years — Dale Brown, Frank Clancy, Paul Johnson; five years — A. B. (Doc) Applebee, Chester Thomason; four years — Larry Bienert, Leonard Daniel; three years — James Bowman, Merle Fox, Robert Neff; two years — Robert Leach, George Klaus.

Rumanian Envoy In City Thursday

Final plans for the visit here March 7-8 by the Ambassador of the Socialist Republic of Rumania to the United States, Corneliu Bogdan, and Mrs. Bogdan, have been announced by President L. Vernon Caine of Illinois College.

President Caine also revealed that the ambassador and his wife will be accompanied to Springfield and Jacksonville by Second Secretary and Mrs. Mircea Capatina.

Ambassador Bogdan will deliver an address to students and faculty of Illinois College in convocation at 10 a.m. Thursday. This is his one West Central Illinois talk to which the public has been invited.

Other speaking engagements will be before the Downtown Kiwanis Club of Springfield Wednesday noon and the combined Rotary and Kiwanis clubs of Jacksonville at noon Thursday. He also will be guest of honor at a private reception at the home of President and Mrs. Caine Wednesday afternoon.

Ambassador Bogdan has an appointment Wednesday morning with Gov. Daniel Walker and plans visits to Mayors William Telford of Springfield and Dan Lahey of Jacksonville. He also will tour the state's capital city and points of interest in Jacksonville.

The ambassador and his party are driving from Washington to this area and plan to stop in Chicago on their return trip.

In announcing the visit, President Caine called attention to the fact that it is unprecedented for this area, since the ambassador is the major representative of an Iron Curtain country.

"His appearance will be educationally significant and should provide better understanding of East-West relations by our students and others who will have the opportunity to hear and meet him," President Caine added.

Ambassador Bogdan had been scheduled here Nov. 15-16, but was forced to cancel that trip because of pressing business in the United Nations.

Several Wrecks In City Net Drivers Tickets

Thomas R. Wright, 68, 826 South Clay, was ticketed by city police Saturday morning for running a traffic signal at the South Main-College intersection.

His auto collided with another operated by Christine Abbott, 23, rural New Berlin. Damage to both vehicles was moderate, and the Abbott car had to be towed from the scene.

Donald Vieira, 48, 523 Sherman, was ticketed by police for driving under the influence of alcohol, leaving the scene of an accident, and failure to yield the right of way, after an accident about 11:50 p.m. Friday at the West State-West Street intersection.

Vieira's car collided with another driven by Dennis R. Langellier, 28, 136 Chestnut. Damage to both was extreme, and the Langellier car was towed from the scene.

Delmont E. Surraat, 53, 525 West Beecher, was ticketed for failure to yield turning left after his car collided with one driven by Gary W. Kaufmann, 27, rural route 1, about noon Saturday.

Both vehicles were towed from the scene. The accident occurred on South Main near Spin-Jet Car Wash.

BURN VICTIM AT BEARDSTOWN IS RECOVERING

BEARDSTOWN — A. T. (Archie) Dunn, veteran and widely known Sangamon Valley farmer, is recovering at his home from severe burns suffered when an exhaust valve in his furnace blew out.

He was scalded from the waist to the neck and spent 12 days in Schmitt Memorial hospital, being released March 1. Mrs. Dunn reported he is doing as well as can be expected, but that it will be a long while before he can get back into his active role on the farm.

VOTERS THANK YOU
For your support in the 2nd Ward in Tuesdays Election.
